What Did We Do In '61--'62?

Many years from now we may look back and think, "1961-62 — That was the school year when . . ."

Tedious hours were spent studying for the grueling exams which we were required to pass. A new language lab was installed and better science facilities were available to us.

We acquired new friendships and strengthened old ones. The "foot-stomp" and the "roach" were among the dance crazes and crazy sayings were popular with all of us.

Through clubs and organizations we learned to work with other people and to accept responsibilities. The new student orientation program was under way and the honor roll increased every semester.

Many new students, about 601, entered their first year of high school, while other students became sophomores and juniors. For the 385 seniors it was the year they heard those meaningful words echoing through Memorial Auditorium, "The class of 1962 is now graduated."

With the addition of new teams we enlarged our sports program. Winning or losing we stuck by all of our teams. Our cheering block grew to perfection.

All in all it was a full year, one which we will look back upon with ever increasing fondness.

We Made Progress—But Not By Accident

Film strips make English grammar easier for the teacher and the student.

Never Use A Preposition To

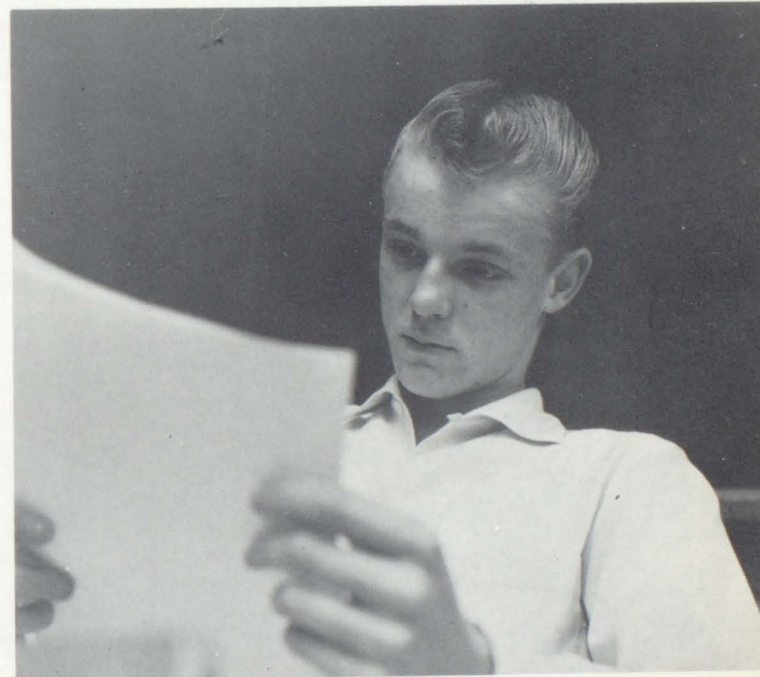

Norma Wilson and Georgeann Mandich both enrolled in a summer reading improvement course, hoping to increase their speed and comprehension by the use of reading accelerators.

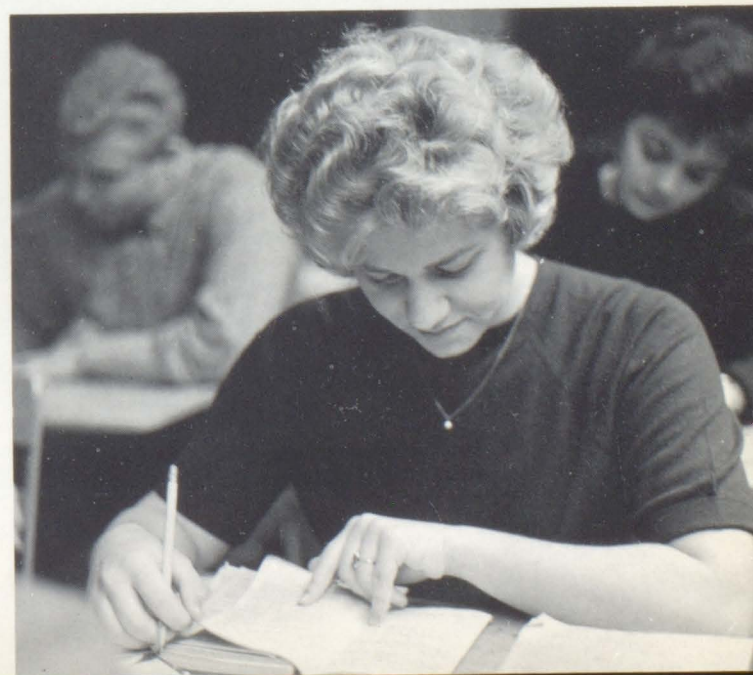

Joanne Bokash and Helen Gabriel exercise their imaginations and skill by writing an in-class theme for a senior composition class.

Although the hands of the clock seem to be spinning, Ron Martin feels it necessary to proof-read his paper before making his final copy.

Donna Davis rechecks the spelling of a word, realizing that each misspelled word will lower her grade.

End A Sentence With

Do you remember this classic grammar joke? You should, as grammar is a must during each of our four years in English. However, grammar does not comprise the entire course of study. Composition and literature classes are offered at all levels. Special attention to reading, vocabulary and spelling is also included in the curriculum.

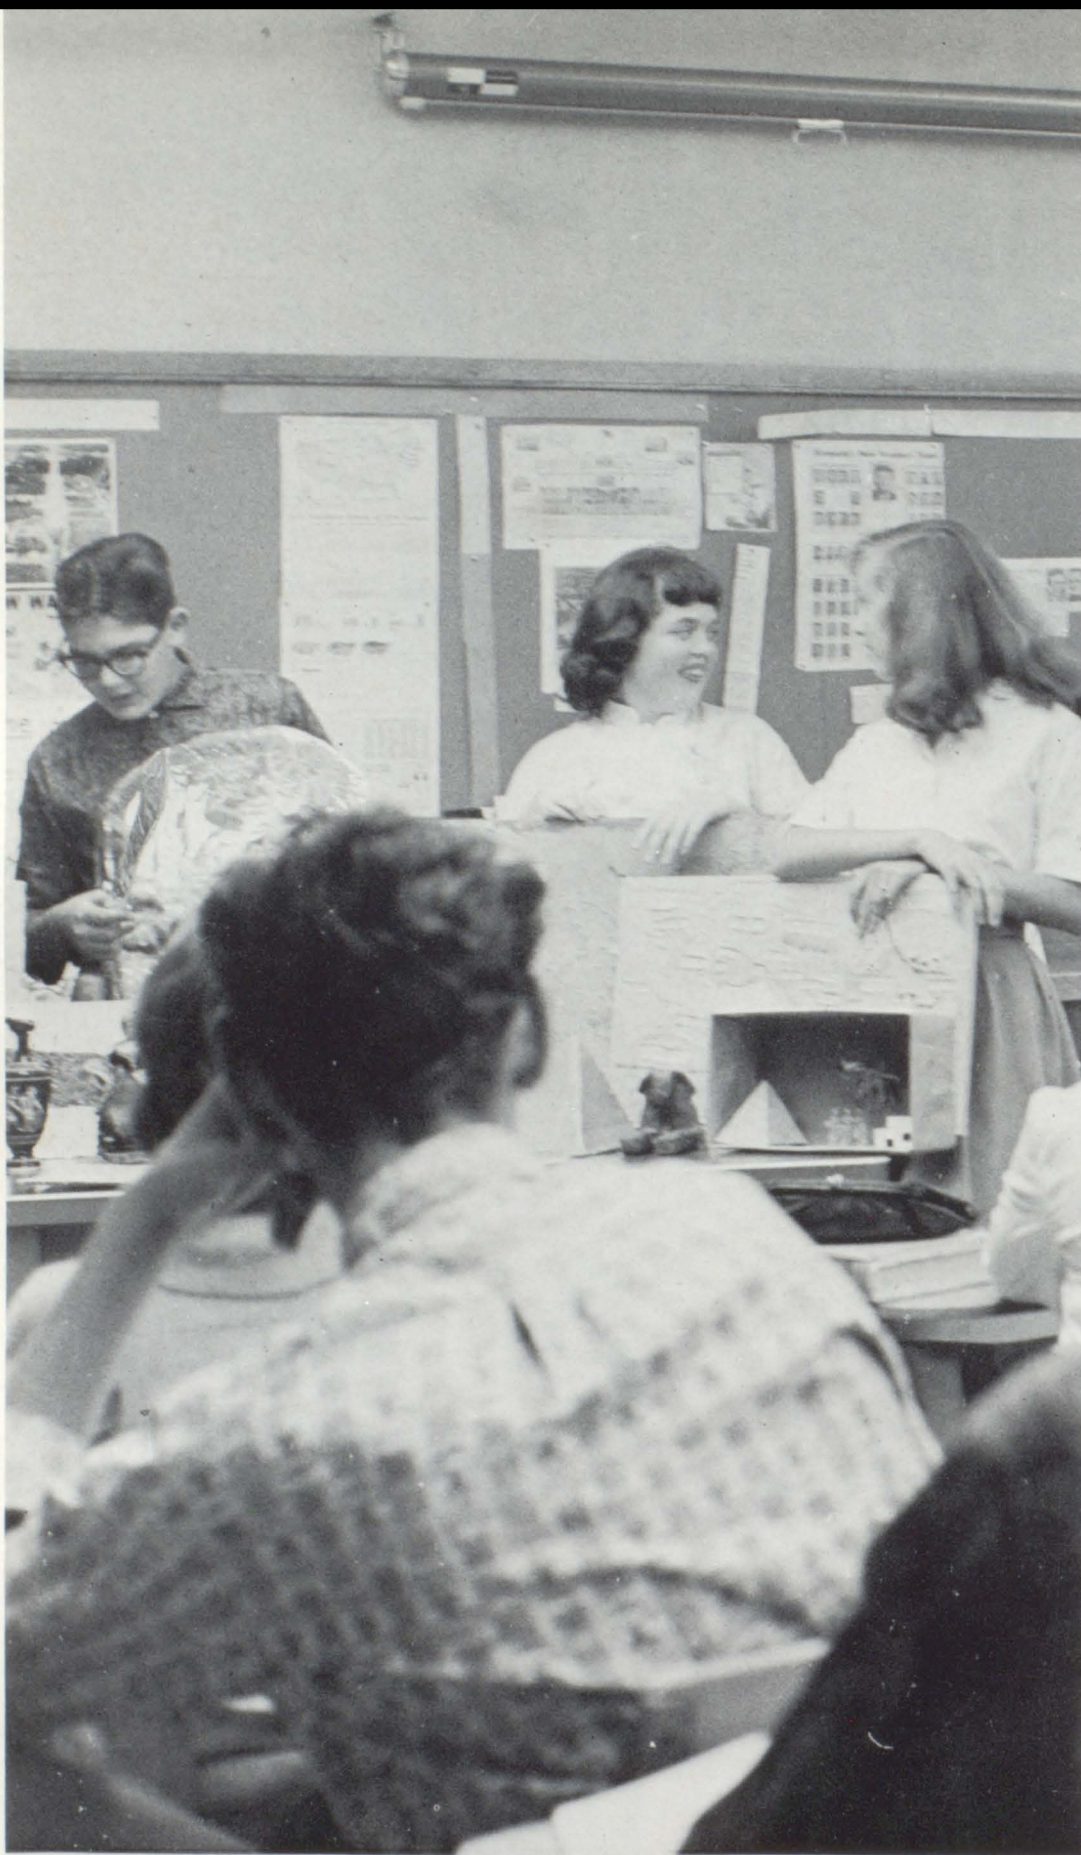

As freshmen, we journey back to ancient times through the study of Herzberg's Myths and become a part of the "wild west" while reading the Covered Wagon. The study of Ivanhoe introduces us to the romance of the Crusades.

During our sophomore year not only do we sample several biographies, but we also attempt to write our own. Shakespeare is introduced at this time through the play, Julius Caesar, and modern short stories keep us up to date.

Every junior vividly recalls the relief felt after delving into stacks of books, organizing note cards, and finally composing and typing his Term Topic. A pleasant memory is the reading and analyzing of Giants in the Earth.

In addition to Shakespeare and other English authors, many varieties of original composition are studied by seniors. Advanced courses in composition and literature were offered to seniors for the first time in order that they might have the opportunity to study Western World Literature in depth.

Past We Learn To Guide Our Future

To test a learning process, Linda Darter wanders blindly through the human maze constructed by Mr. Russell Anderson's psychology class.

It is from a knowledge of the past that the plans for a successful future are generally made. Our social studies department offers a complete coverage of history from the muffled cry of the cave man to the "New Frontier."

As sophomores we are assigned a foreboding infinity of names and dates in World History. Do you remember when the Battle of Hastings took place?

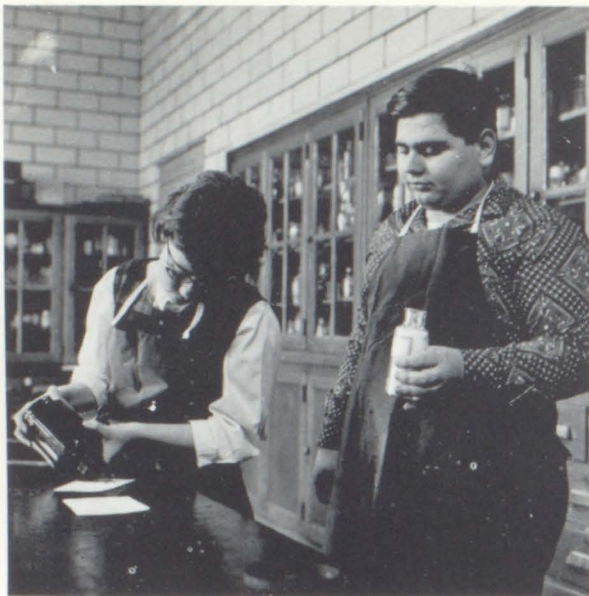

U. S. History, a subject required of juniors, gives an unbiased summary of the historical life of our country. It is through this study that the jumble of laws and concepts referred to in the news of the day becomes clear.

Current affairs, both national and international, are followed by most of our seniors. As students of Civics and World Problems, these informed young adults attempt to analyze the problems of the country. Economics also lends a hand in this analytical survey of world affairs. The study of our free enterprise system is offered as an alternative for World Problems.

As the leaders of the future, it has been our privilege to be concerned with the problems of the past and present.

"I disagree!" argues Ruth Mahaney in a panel discussion, "Communism Within", broadcast on WGVE. Identifiable members of the Civics panel are Steve Tokarski, Loretta Zakzewski and Allan Russell.

"Let's mix sulfur and zinc," suggests Janice Thompson to Mike McCarney, her lab partner.

"I wonder what would happen if we heated the mixture?"

Sulfur+zinc — zinc sulfide (and explosion)!

Arlene Balakir, Steve Tokarski and John Vokurka measure the velocity of a lead car in a physics experiment, while Bob Ligocki records the results.

Watchful Eye On The Future

Who first split the atom? Who discovered such things as digestion and circulation? Where did theorems originate? Many questions are answered for the inquisitive students in our science and mathematics departments. One year of science and two years of math are required; however, many students elect to continue their interest in these subjects.

Biology includes the study of all living things — plants, insects and man. One memorable task is the tedious, but absorbing job of collecting and arranging "bug" collections.

Chemistry is elected by science-minded juniors and seniors. They become familiar with the atomic theory as well as the properties and compounds of the 102 basic elements. Well-equipped laboratories enable the students to experiment with new-found concepts.

A different approach in the teaching of physics has been promoted this year. The Physical Science Study Committee (PSSC) method includes a new book, detailed enough for two-year instruction, and lab kits for the various experiments.

Another step forward is the accelerated math program, where algebra is offered to eighth grade students. These students are fortunate to be able to carry their high school study of math to a more advanced level than was possible in previous years.

Miss Helen Rzepka demonstrates the use of the slide rule in division. Judy Vician watches closely while Barbara Markowicz and Chris Dimitroff compute the quotient.

"Where did that bug go?" asks Jerry Wilkerson of his fellow searchers, Florence Yovanoff, Phyllis Beasley, Janet Irak, John Chiabai and Dave Pavol. They all seemed to agree that this year was a good one for bugs.

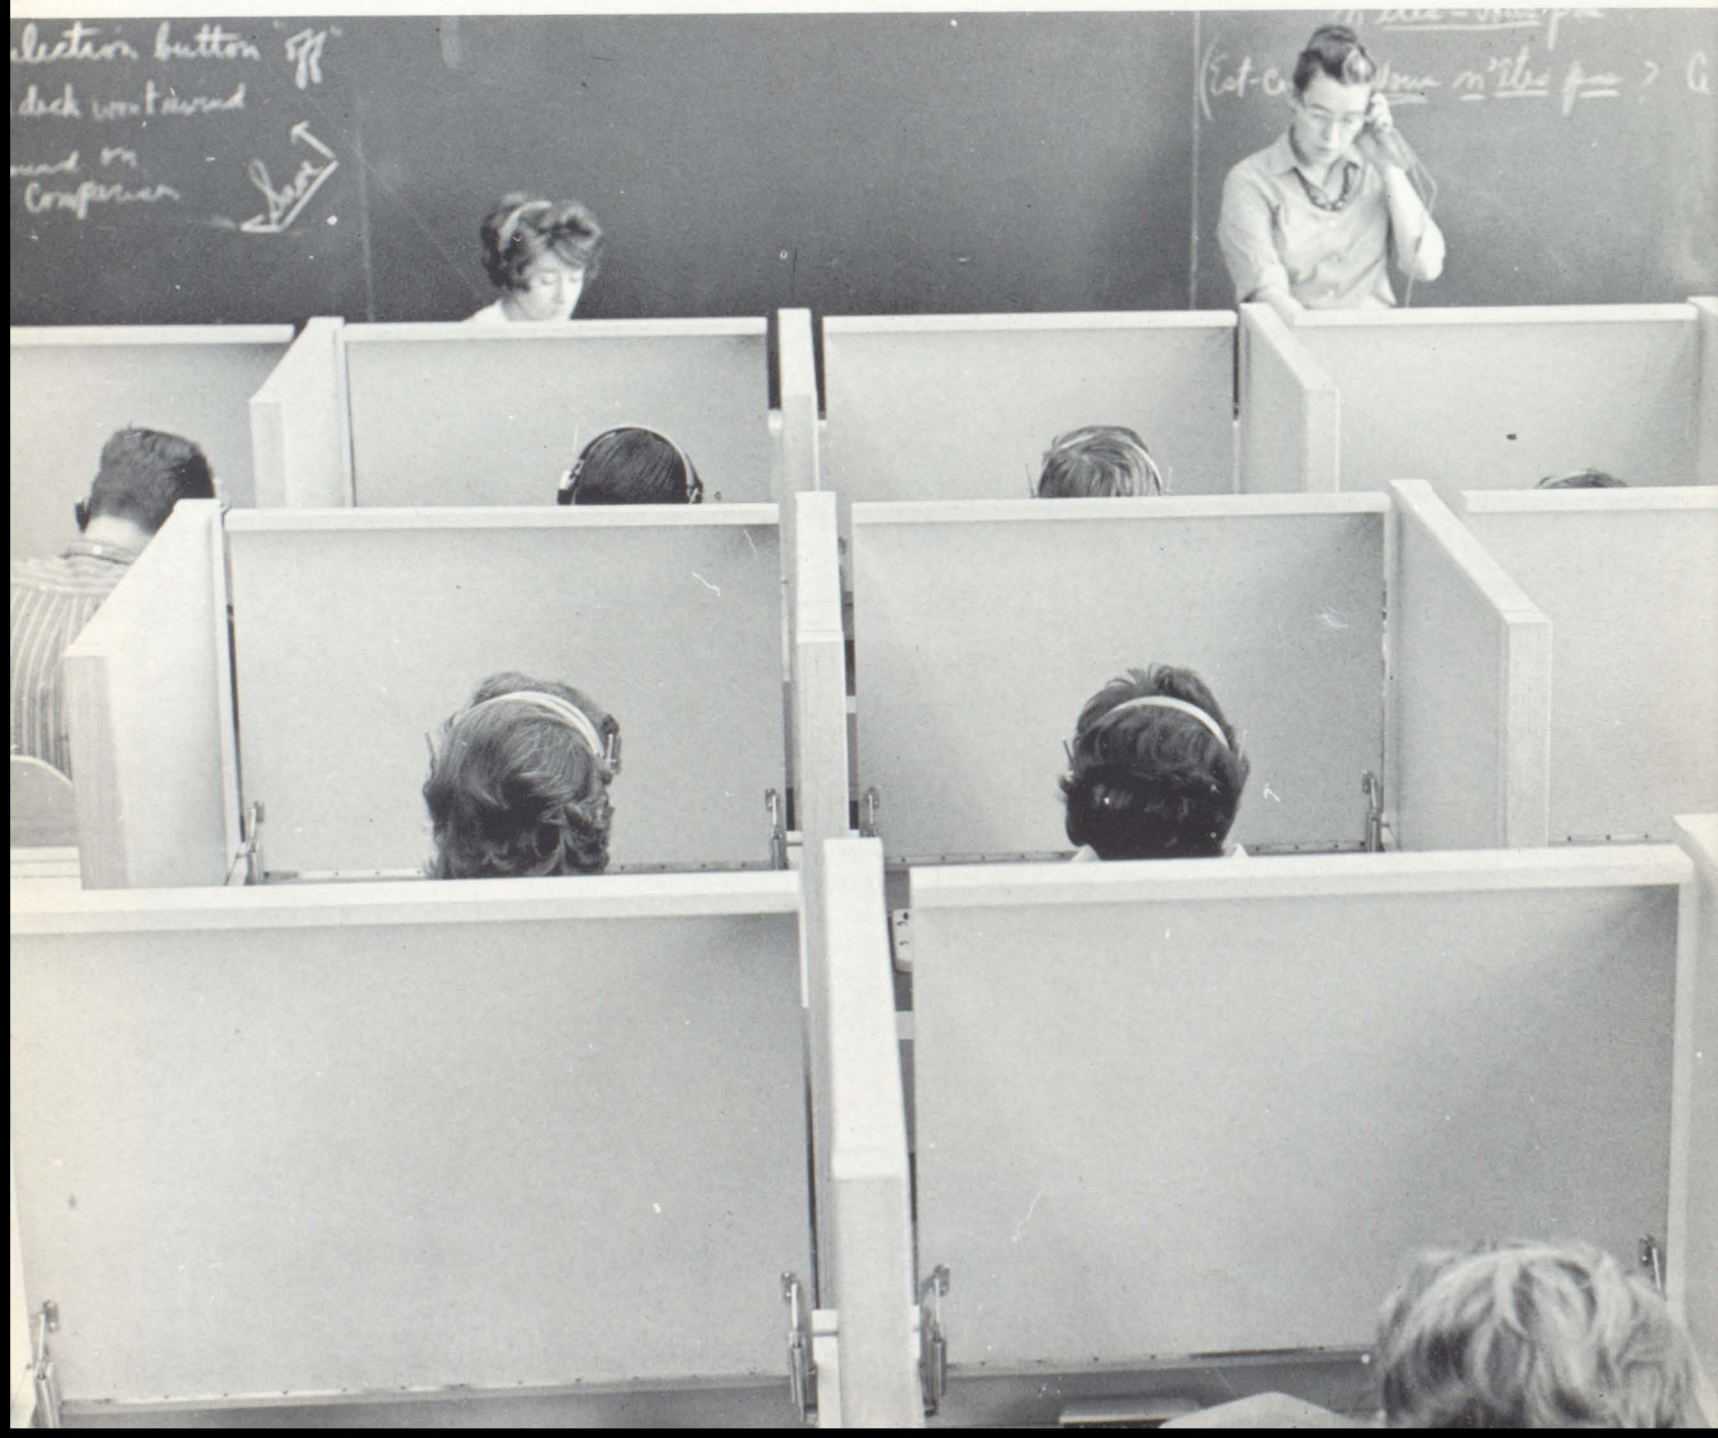

Our World Is Smaller Through Study Of

Have you ever wanted to journey to foreign lands or to understand cultures other than our own? Most students would find this difficult to accomplish during their school days. The teachers of our three foreign languages strive to transport their pupils to either ancient Rome, sunny France or colorful Spain.

The study of Latin, like that of Spanish and French, is offered in the seventh grade. Four years of the classical language are taught. Two years can prove a boost to one's vocabulary and understanding of English grammar. Through the dactylic hexameter of Vergil and fiery orations of Cicero, the advanced Latin students become familiar with two of the world's greatest pieces of Roman literature.

The newly-installed language laboratory gives the students of French and Spanish a distinct advantage. Each booth, which is built for one person, is equipped with a tape recorder, a set of earphones and a microphone. Through using these aids a student can hear and imitate the French and Spanish pronunciations. This modern development enables the teacher to give more corrective aid to the individual student.

With the newly installed language lab, Mrs. Jeanette Hady is able to teach her students to speak French more fluently and to give them more personal attention. The language lab is also used by the Spanish teachers.

Other Cultures

Ken Kepchar amusingly imitates Cicero, the fiery orator, much to the enjoyment of the members of the Latin III class. Alice Roberts, Mary L. Davis, Mary Cass, Mike McCarney and Mary Newport are enjoying his Roman antics.

"I now crown you Reina Hortensia, Queen for a Day!" exclaims Roni Jelusich to Betty Lou Cook. Runnersup Caryl Brueckheimer and Carole Gaydos share mixed emotions. The girls prepared this skit as part of a class program for Spanish III.

Pat Fox is at the tedious job of balancing long columns of figures in bookkeeping.

"Gty skrih kghei? What's wrong with this type-writer?" wonders Jeanette Giannini as Mrs. Mabel Joseph inspects her work.

Future Office Workers Strive For Speed

"Attorney" Ed Stazinski points accusingly at the defendant, Jackie Burns. Acting as jurors, students of a Business Law class deliberate the verdict to be delivered to "Judge" Ron Oliver.

And Form

"If only she'd dictate a little slower . . ." thinks Mary Alice Boyle, hurrying to keep up with her Shorthand II classmates.

With notebooks opened and pens poised, the secretaries and stenographers of tomorrow prepare for their careers as they are drilled in typing and bookkeeping. In these courses they learn the importance of accuracy and the price of erasers. Along with these fundamentals, the girls (and boys) are tutored in the qualities usually attributed to a good secretary. After all, a successful office worker must be neat and friendly, as well as efficient.

Although relatively new, business law has taken a sharp increase in enrollment this year as more and more students are realizing the benefits of this course. Legal rights and duties, discharge of contracts, bailments and mortgages are just a few of the subjects under discussion in Mr. Robert Yates' class.

As a great service to our school, several of the students in business courses volunteer their talents in the offices. In this way they not only relieve the office staff of unnecessary burdens, but they also gain valuable experience. Four of the girls work on financial matters with Mrs. Elizabeth Speck, the business advisor of the Publications Staff.

Under the supervision of Mr. Joseph Mrak, Bill Zone and Ron Kacir learn to touch up negatives for offset printing.

Able Hands Are Trained For

Larry Morgan carefully measures his lines to check with those in his mechanical drawing manual.

With the aid of the table saw, Tom Wallin completes the foundation of his poker table.

Lindell Hammond laces together the pieces of his leather project.

From morning to night the supplement to classroom work is the audio visual department which provides projects, films and operators to classroom projects.

The Jobs Of Tomorrow

A useful tool is being shaped on the metal lathe by Fred Dow.

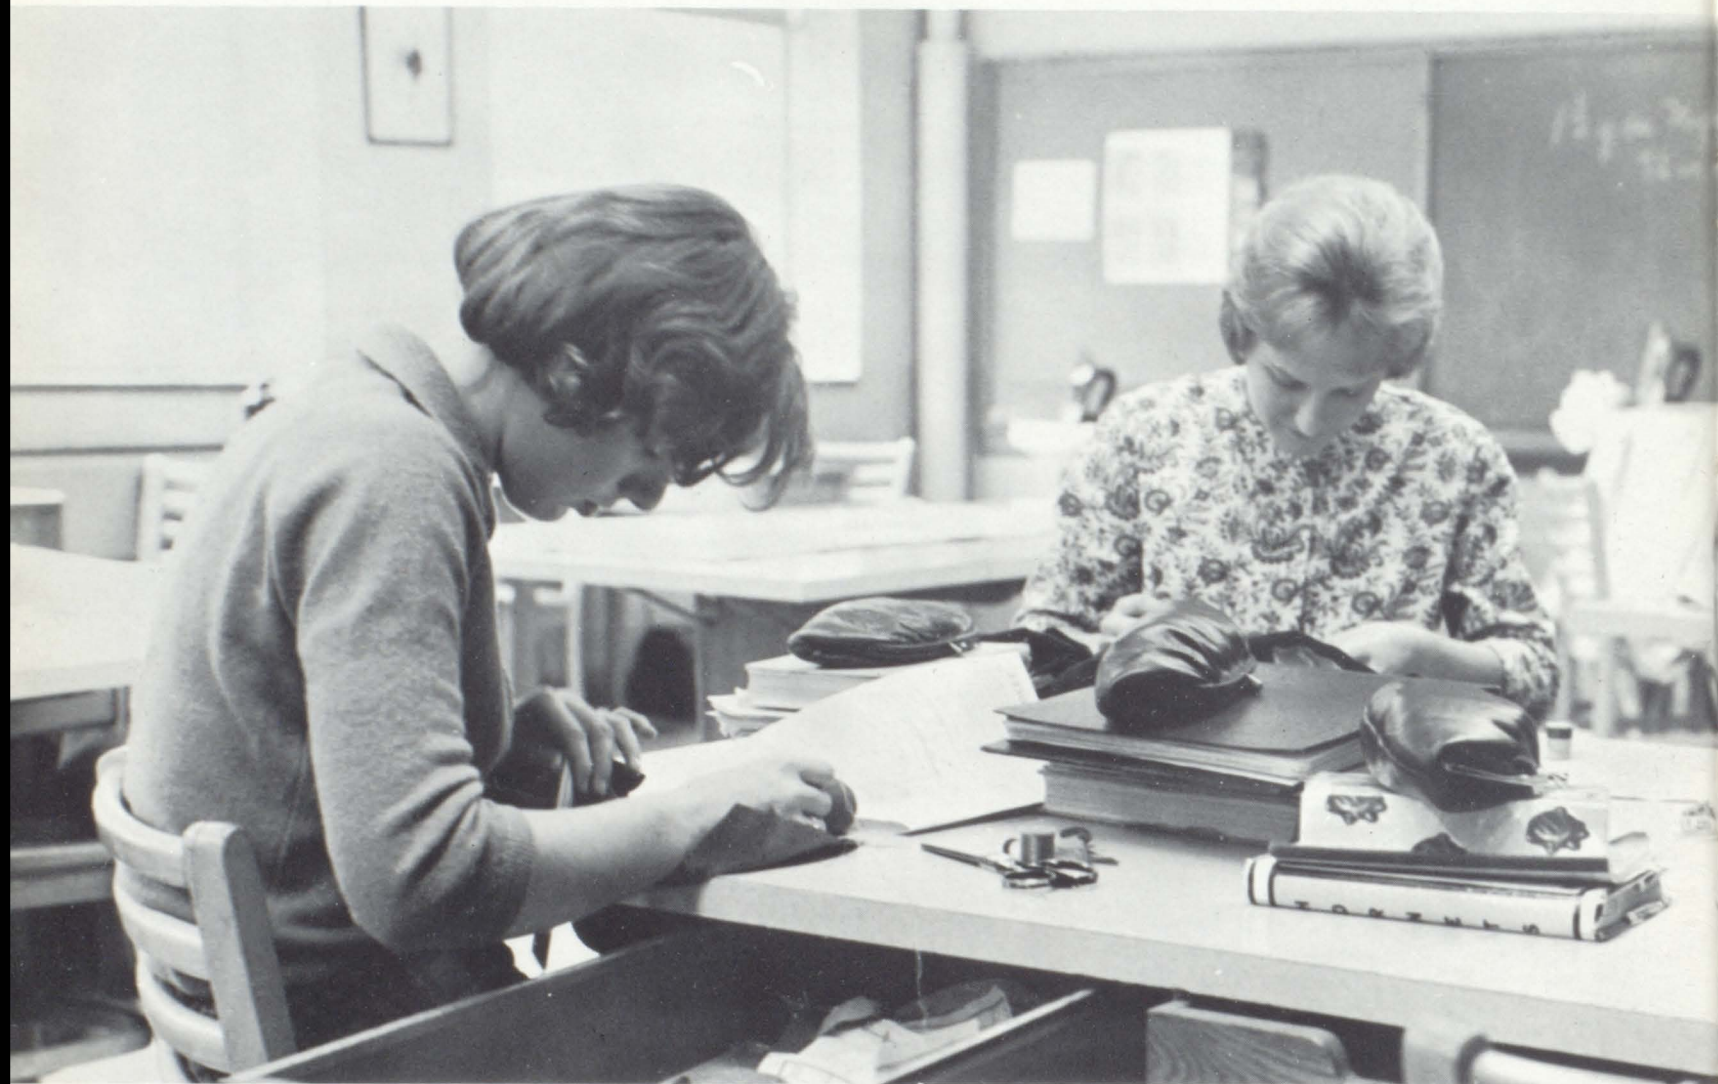

From the 2782 students enrolled in our school will come the future doctors, lawyers and other professional people of Gary. Others, too, will be molded here — our carpenters, electricians, printers, technicians and photographers. Their preliminary training is offered in the variety of vocational classes offered in high school.

This is, in part, a tale of hands. In woodshop and crafts the main tools are creative hands. No machine could possibly produce attractive lamps and wallets without the imagination and personal toil of man. The ink-stained fingers of the printers produce the professional-looking programs, schedules and tickets used for all school activities. The fundamentals of electricity and metal work constitute the curriculum for the metal shop advocates. Mechanical drawing enthusiasts need a steady hand and precise straight edge ruler. In radio classes the hands team up with a clear voice in the direct broadcasts of our school station, WGVE. An imaginative eye and a quick hand are the primary assets of a photographer. These, among other things, are cultivated in photography.

The opportunities for training offered in a modern high school are limitless. The training story of hands will continue for many years to come.

Buttons Will Never Replace A Woman

The keys to inexpensive but high fashion are hard work and straight pins. Mary Jo Mills and Billie Stucker labor diligently over their spring wardrobes.

Most babies are not as co-operative as this one, but Elisa Pardo shows Bonnie Carey, Margaret Carr and Linda Darter the proper procedure during a home nursing class.

In The Home

Despite the push-button kitchens of today, a homemaker must still be familiar with the fundamentals of cooking. Packaged mixes will never take the place of homemade cakes and cookies. In our domestic science classes, girls learn to prepare dishes that pave the way to a man's heart. With careful attention to instruction, savory meals are planned, prepared and eaten during class periods.

While the "modern miss" dresses with taste and imagination, she takes a practical attitude toward fashion. In sewing classes, she learns to inspect fabrics with a critical eye and her budget in mind. She learns to know how an outfit will look when finished by merely inspecting the pattern. The finished product can be worn proudly as a symbol of accomplishment.

Although relatively new, home nursing and modern living classes are in demand by many girls. The students of home nursing are schooled in the care of the convalescent. The latter course attracts the girl with her mind on the future. Demonstrations of home constructions and arrangements are common. One of the highlights of this year was the commentaries of Mrs. Howard Lind, a bridal consultant.

Toni Finoli patiently washes the dishes that have accumulated during her cooking class hour. "All housework is not glamorous," she sighs.

Music, Art And

"Do, re, mi —" Karen Norris, Connie Robinson and Emma Joe Bernheisel realize that members of the Concert Choir must practice the scale before every performance.

Have you ever seen an artist at his easel or a musician thoughtfully studying his music or an orator preparing for a debate? You won't have to look far. Within our classrooms you will find many hard-working artists, intent on creativity.

The music department includes the band, orchestra and choral divisions. Students are continually in practice for coming events. Their activities include the production of an operetta, the traditional Vesper services, the annual Christmas Pageant and the Masterworks Concert. Various choral groups are available offering membership to budding vocalists.

New dimensions in expression are being added to the curriculum of the art classes. Abstract painting, sculpturing in clay, charcoal sketching and dimensional drawing are being taught to our interested amateur artists. Their displays are part of the corridor attractions, first floor Room 3.

Speech and drama are two popular electives taught in both junior and senior high school. The aims of these courses are to develop in the students self-confidence and poise while speaking in public. Students are encouraged to participate in oratorical contests, class debates and short plays.

Ed Hardie's attempts at public speaking draw chuckles from his classmates and a slight frown from Mrs. Mattie Hannsz, his speech teacher.

Speech Add Pleasure And Culture

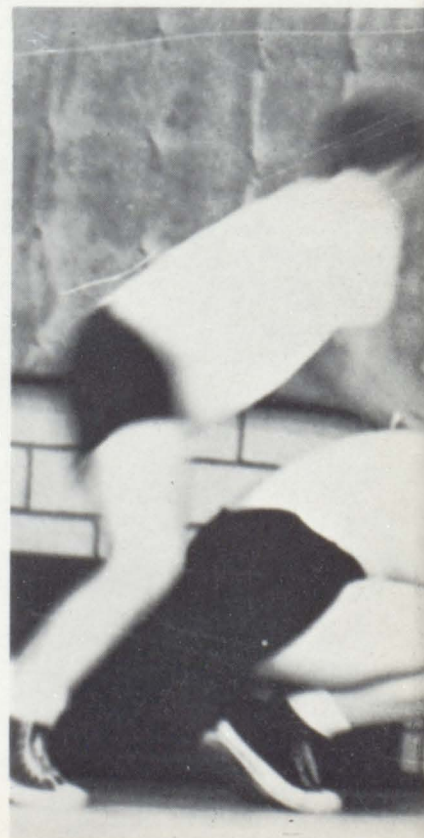

Maryanne Pangburn and Clare Vullmann try to capture the beauty of our campus on their sketch pads.

Teenagers Learn The Importance Of

Physical Fitness

Since anatomy is an important part of the study of Safety, Coach Larry Martin uses charts to explain the human body to Sharon Steele and Mike Orlich.

Coach Martin explains the techniques of proper shifting to Jackie Rubino. The driver training program is a requirement of all safety classes.

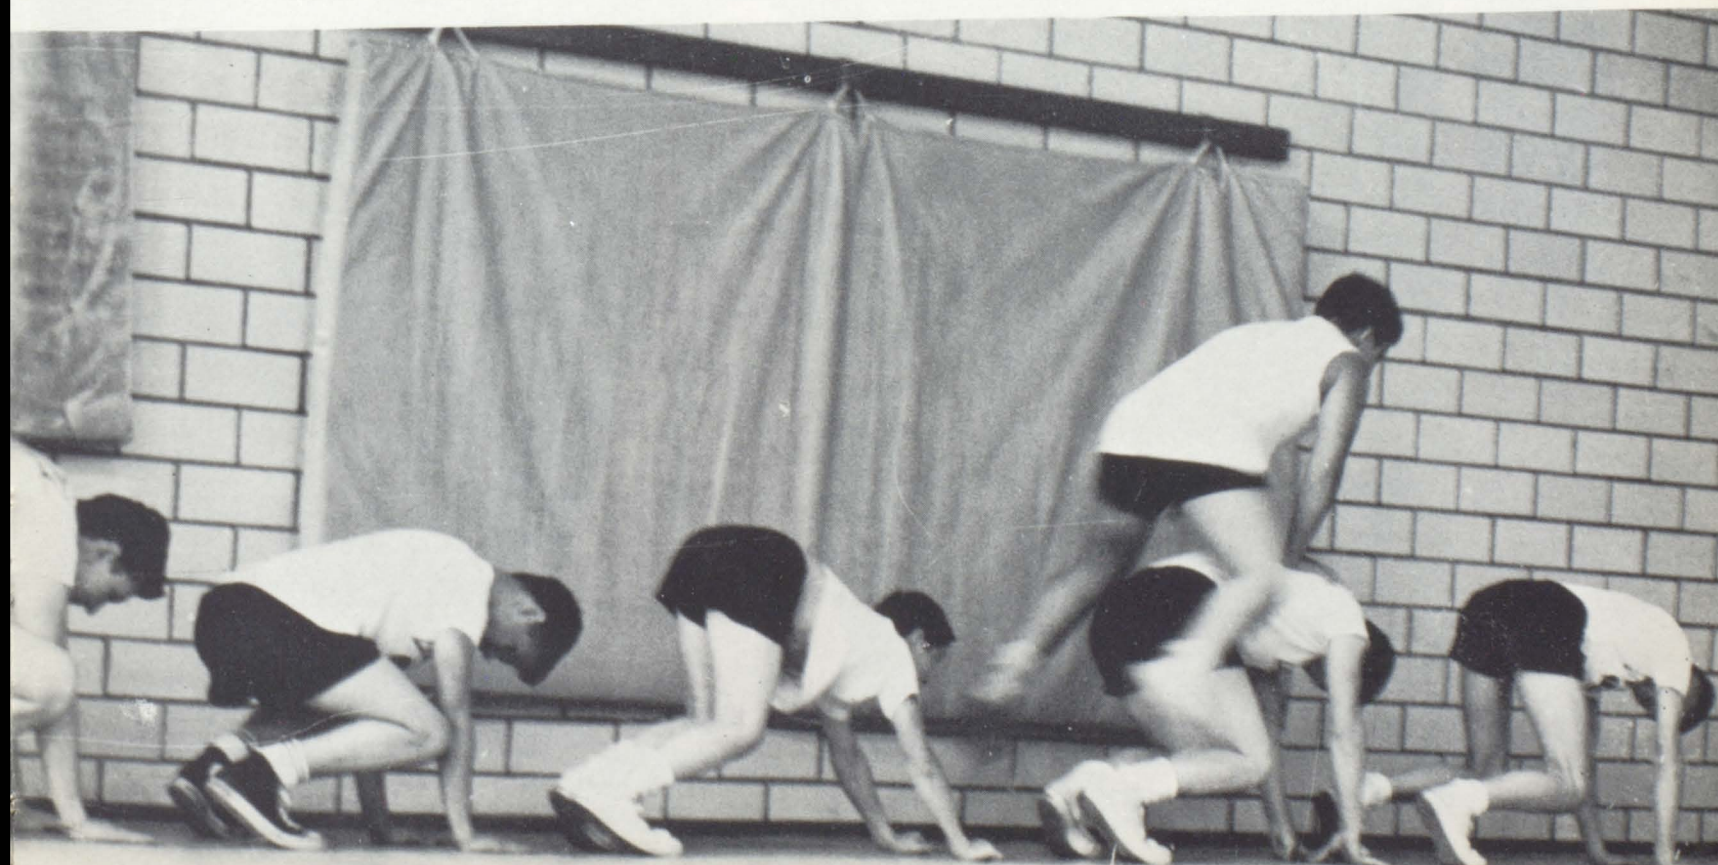

In order to produce well-rounded individuals, physical education, safety, health and drivers' training are offered to students.

Physical education, a required course, enables boys and girls to develop skills and interests in such sports as basketball, volleyball and baseball. The girls are kept fit and trim by doing weekly exercises and by swimming. Tumbling, rope climbing, wrestling and relay races occupy one hour every day for the boys.

Safety, a state requirement for graduation, and health classes supply students with useful information. Teens learn many important facts about the human body such as the location of the five pressure points, application of various bandages, methods of administering artificial respiration and home safety precautions.

Sophomore, junior and senior students are offered an optional drivers' training course which lasts for one grade period. Many enter the course with little knowledge of driving skills. Often they have trouble explaining the use of the gear shift or clutch. After six weeks of driving our automatic and manual-shift cars, they become quite proficient. In addition to the road practice, students must have an understanding of the traffic rules and regulations.

Leap frog, as a game or an exercise, develops co-ordination and balance.

We Had Fun--And Enjoyed New Pastimes

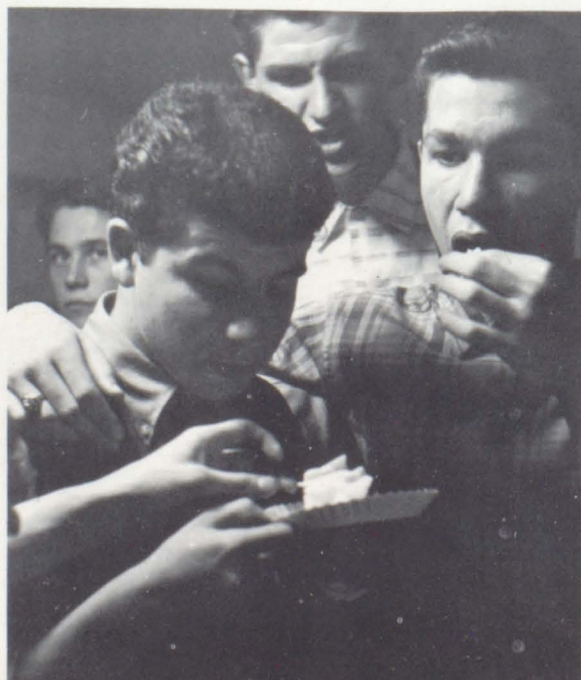

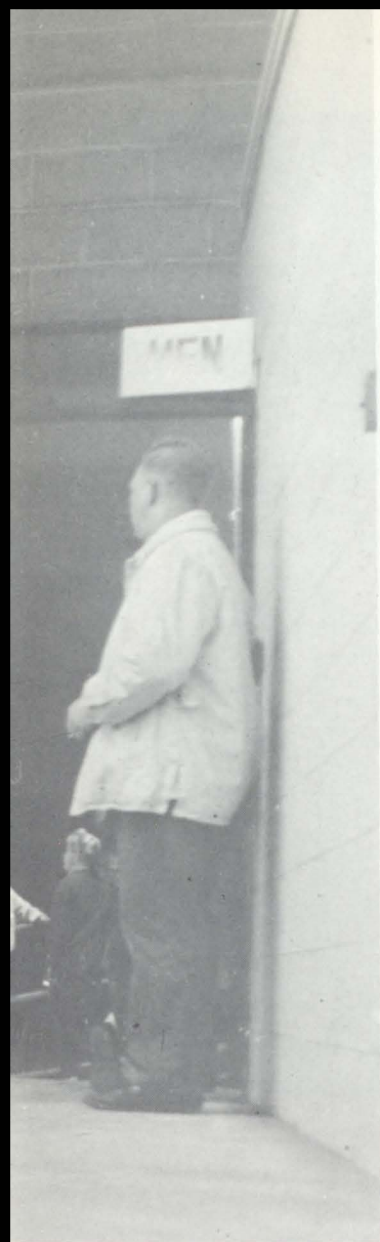

We could hardly wait to begin cheering as we climbed the ramp leading to the stands of Gilroy Stadium.

Games Built Up Enthusiasm

After cheering hard at the game, Glenn Marquardt and Dennis Litherland enjoy nothing better than a good hot pizza at Pete and Snook's.

"Get your own!" says Rick LeBurkein when Jim Adams and Frank Marchese grab for his cake during an after-game party.

"We are the Hornets, the Hornets are we!" cry our proud Hornet fans.

Watching her team with pride and admiration is Andrea Cokusis, 1961 Football-O-Rama Queen.

And Stirred Our Appetites

Roberta Coster and Kim Polizotto propose a toast after another Hornet victory.

Football kicked off the social side of the '61-'62 year. Hundreds of us filed into Gilroy Stadium September first to watch the annual Football-O-Rama games. Our Hornets chalked up a 6-0 victory that night against Emerson, and Andrea Cokusis reigned proudly as Football-O-Rama Queen.

When the cleates of the football shoes could be heard no more, in bounced our basketball players. This meant fighting our way through rain and snow to Memorial Auditorium to cheer our team on. Then, with the crack of a bat, spring was upon us and it was time to view the baseball games.

Much of our leisure time was spent attending these athletic events. Afterwards, hungry and pleasantly tired, we raced like mad to Pete and Snook's to order a pizza and to save seats for our friends.

Our cafeteria supplied the fuel which kept us going until the end of the afternoon.

We Always Tried To Place Business

Kathy Rykovich takes advantage of the senior library facilities to do some important research work.

By the time we settled down and began to concentrate on our work, it was time for the bell to ring.

Research work for term papers, the reading of required novels, and the writing of autobiographies are only a handful of the things we did this year in the way of studying. We always tried to be prepared for "pop quizzes" which the teachers managed to spring on us. We took special care of our notebooks containing the information that served us well when we had to cram for final exams.

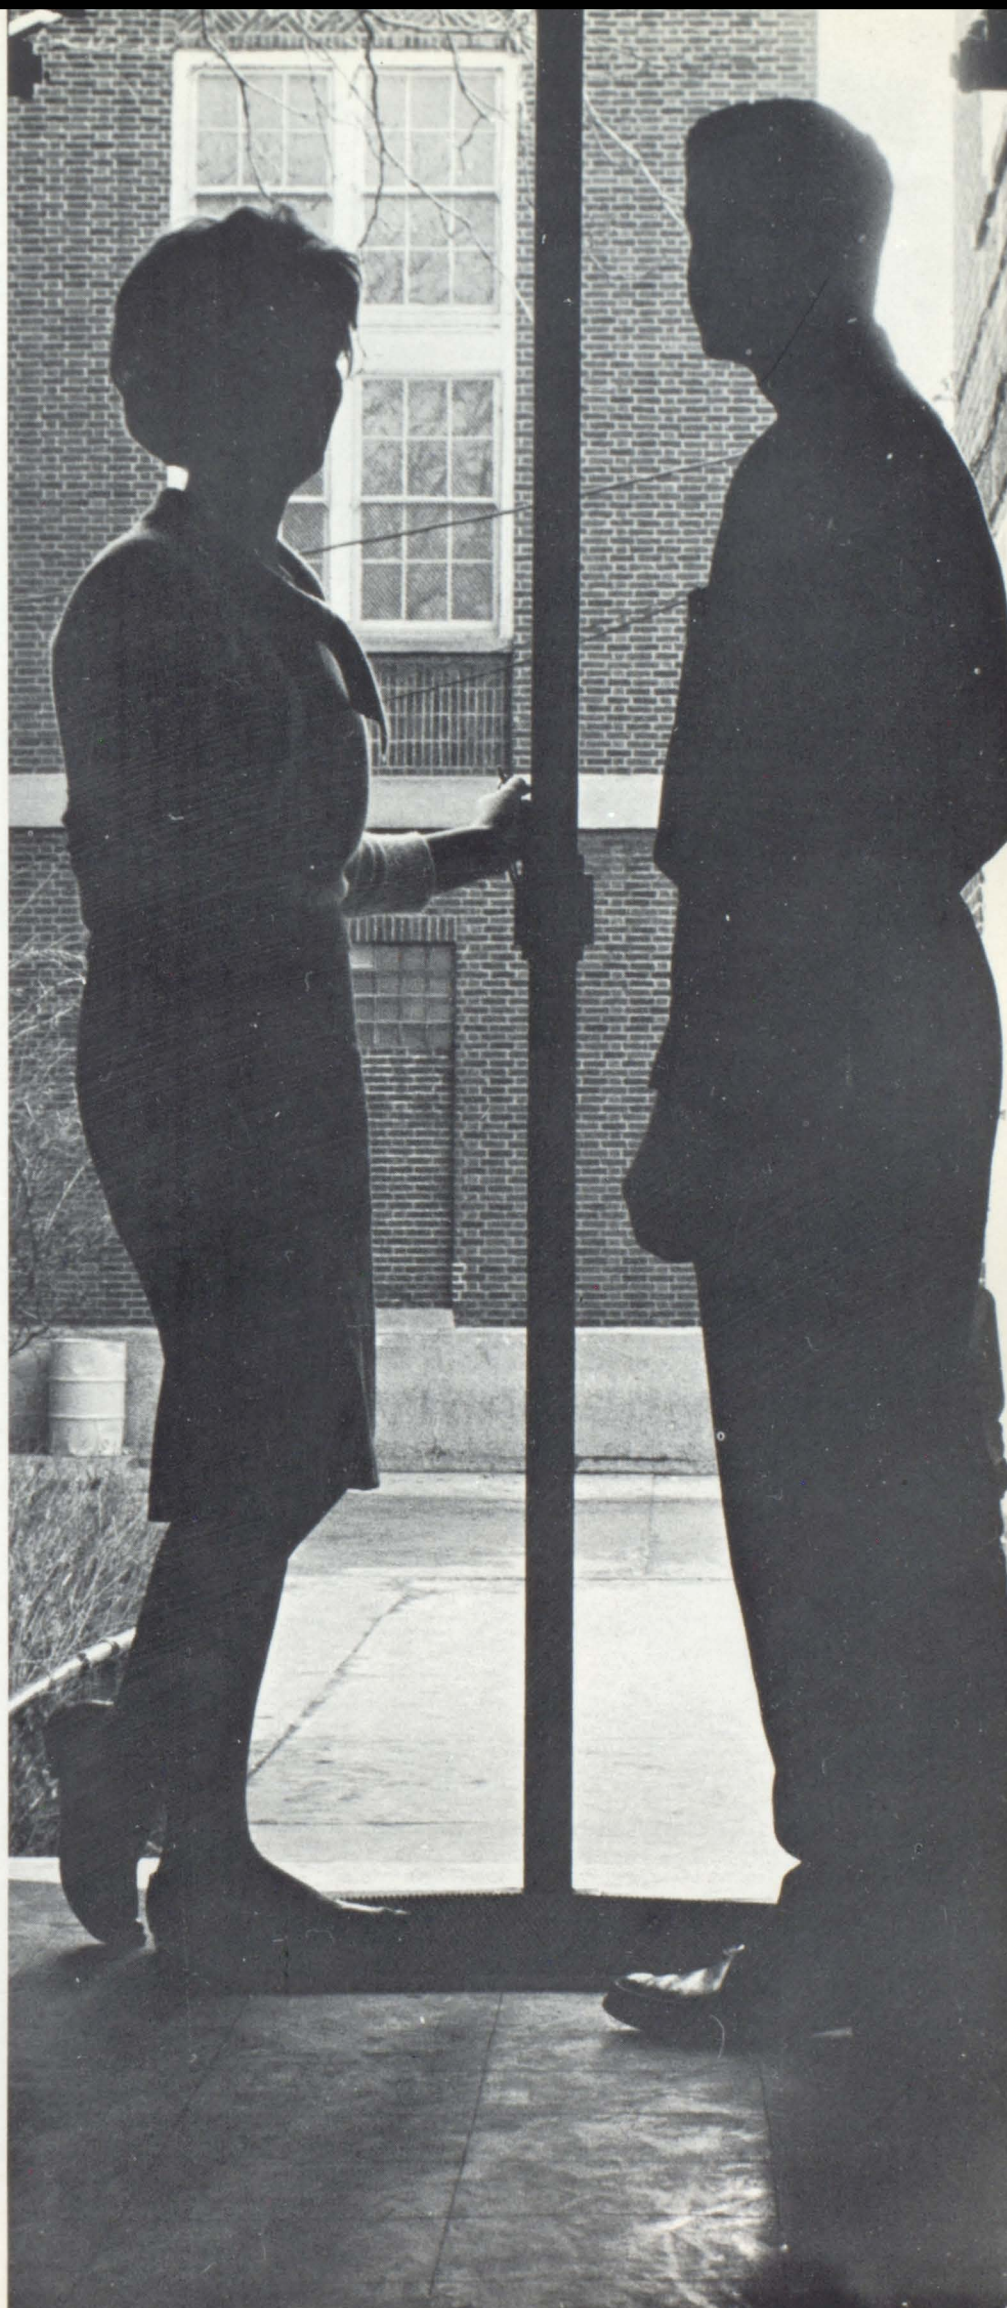

Many of us took time out from everyday work to consult with college representatives or to take aptitude tests such as the S. C. A. T., P. S. A. T., or College Board Examinations.

The senior and junior libraries, which helped accommodate us with current event topics and book reports, were in constant use.

Come 3:20 and we were still "hanging around" to participate in after school activities. A few growls of our stomachs told us dinner time was nearing as we grabbed our books and started home.

Although the last bell had rung, we didn't leave; we lingered in the doorways to make plans for the weekend.

Before Pleasure

The stag dances gave us a chance to talk with our friends and try out the newest dance steps.

"Where do I put my other foot?" Sandy Yankovich asks Helen Gabriel as they prepare to hit the trail.

Pastimes

"Maxie, there's something wrong with the worms," said Tokarski. Don Tokarski and Stan Morvath wait patiently for a bite on the shores of Lake George in Hobart.

Were Found To Satisfy Our Every Whim

The experienced watched with amusement as 601 freshmen faced the chaos of Freshman Week. The frosh had finally reached that first plateau which entitled them to attend the high school dances. The primary purpose of the stag dance wasn't to dance, as the name might imply. It was looked upon as an opportunity to socialize with fellow students.

The crisp fall days were ideal for hikes through the Dunes, or horseback riding. Some of us, bitten by the fishing bug, found pleasure in just sitting endlessly in some deserted spot, pole in hand, waiting for the big ones to bite.

Saturday nights were extra special and usually were spent with that "certain someone" or with the "gang" at a drive-in movie or at the neighborhood bowling alley.

Our fun-filled weekends eventually reached their climax on Sunday nights when we attempted to catch up on the all-important homework assignments.

Mothers complained about the washing problem, but the girls had fun while dancing at the sock hop in their stocking feet.

Mmmmm-boy, does Marvene Seben ever look good in the new "Twist" dress she's trying on at Carija's Apparel.

"Your knees are showing!" teases Bill Haburjak after noticing Cathy Kocek's knee tickler and long socks.

Strange Things

Many new, zany ideas sprang forth from the inner depths of our sub-conscious to produce some of the craziest fads ever known in our school.

Hemlines and hair styles became long enough to cover the subject, yet short enough to hold interest. The high-crested fuzzy hats which the girls sported during the winter, caused quite a bit of hilarity among the young male members of our school.

When we danced, we didn't stick to the old two-step, but kept up with the times and tried new dances such as the "Continental" and the "Foot Stomp" which were sweeping the nation. For those of us who liked a little more action, there was always the "Limbo."

We concocted a language which impressed our parents and teachers as leaving much to be desired in the field of proper grammatical usage.

These fashionable freshmen, Nanci Powenski, Kim Maple, Phyllis Beasley and Pat Spurlock are wearing the fuzzy hats and furry collars which were so popular this winter.

Were Heard And Seen On Campus

"Put a little fun in your life, try the Limbo," suggests Rick LeBurkein to a group of curious onlookers.

Rodney Shipley and Dennis Stanczak cast admiring glances at their dates, Julie Jensen and Janice Wheat, as they arrive at the Crystal Ballroom.

"Holler if I stick you!" warns Janice Wheat while pinning a boutonniere on Dennis Stanczak.

Julie and Rodney seem to be dancing in a world of their own.

Prom Night Was

"I'm almost too excited to eat," thinks Fran Felinski as she and Mike Kompir arrive at Teibel's for the post prom party.

Wishing that this particular moment of the Prom could last forever are couples Rodney Shipley and Julie Jensen, Darlene Naccaroto and Ken Pittman, and Fran Felinski and Mike Kompir.

Filled With Dancing And Romancing

While waiting for their dinner, these Prom couples discussed the events of the evening and plans for the next day.

A goodnight kiss is a perfect ending for a perfect evening.

Jobs Help Teach

Rushing to after-school jobs was not unusual for many students. These jobs taught us to accept responsibility, but frequently tended to shorten our leisure time. They covered various fields of employment ranging from clerking in bakeries or clothing stores to weathering paper routes.

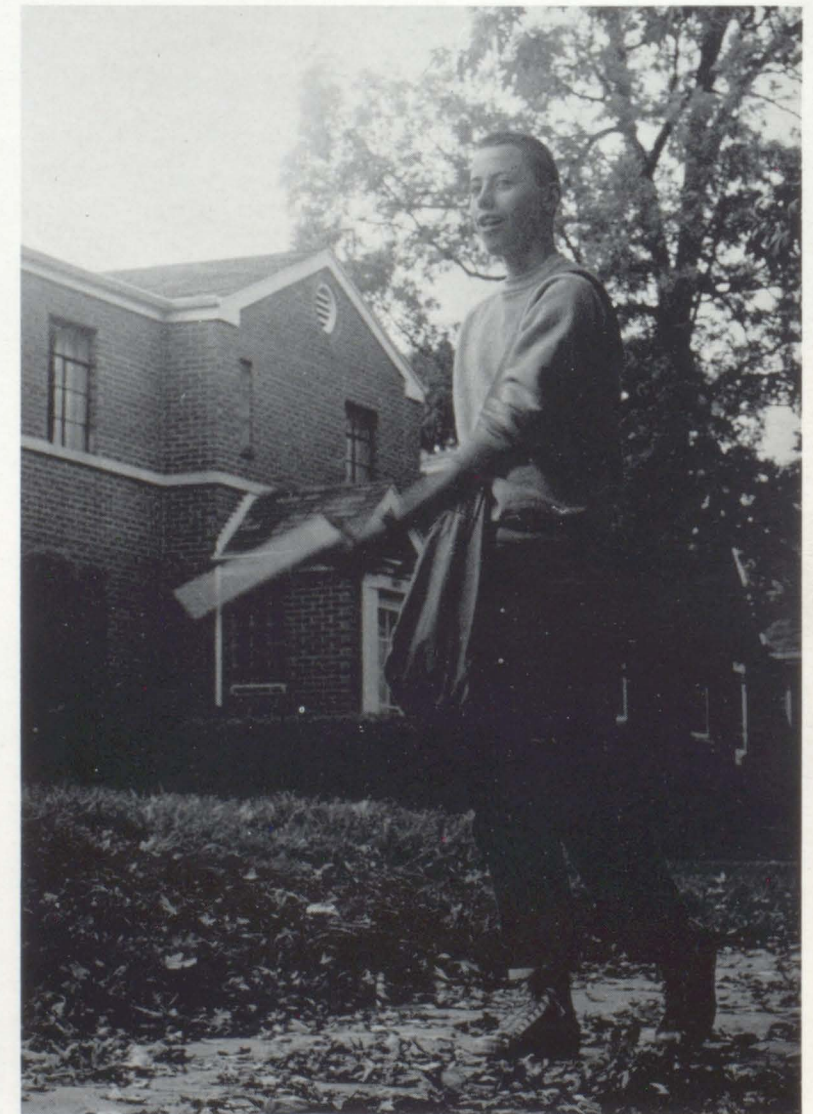

The traditional teas and luncheons, the Prom, Baccalaureate and, last but not least, Commencement were among the events which made '61-'62 especially memorable for the seniors. No prouder graduates than our own will be found on June 1, when they march across the stage of Memorial Auditorium to receive that all-important document known as a diploma.

High school has given us a lifetime of memories. The green freshman, the in-between sophomore, the new upperclass junior and the grown-up senior could write enough books to fill a library if they were ever to relate all the personal happenings of their high school years.

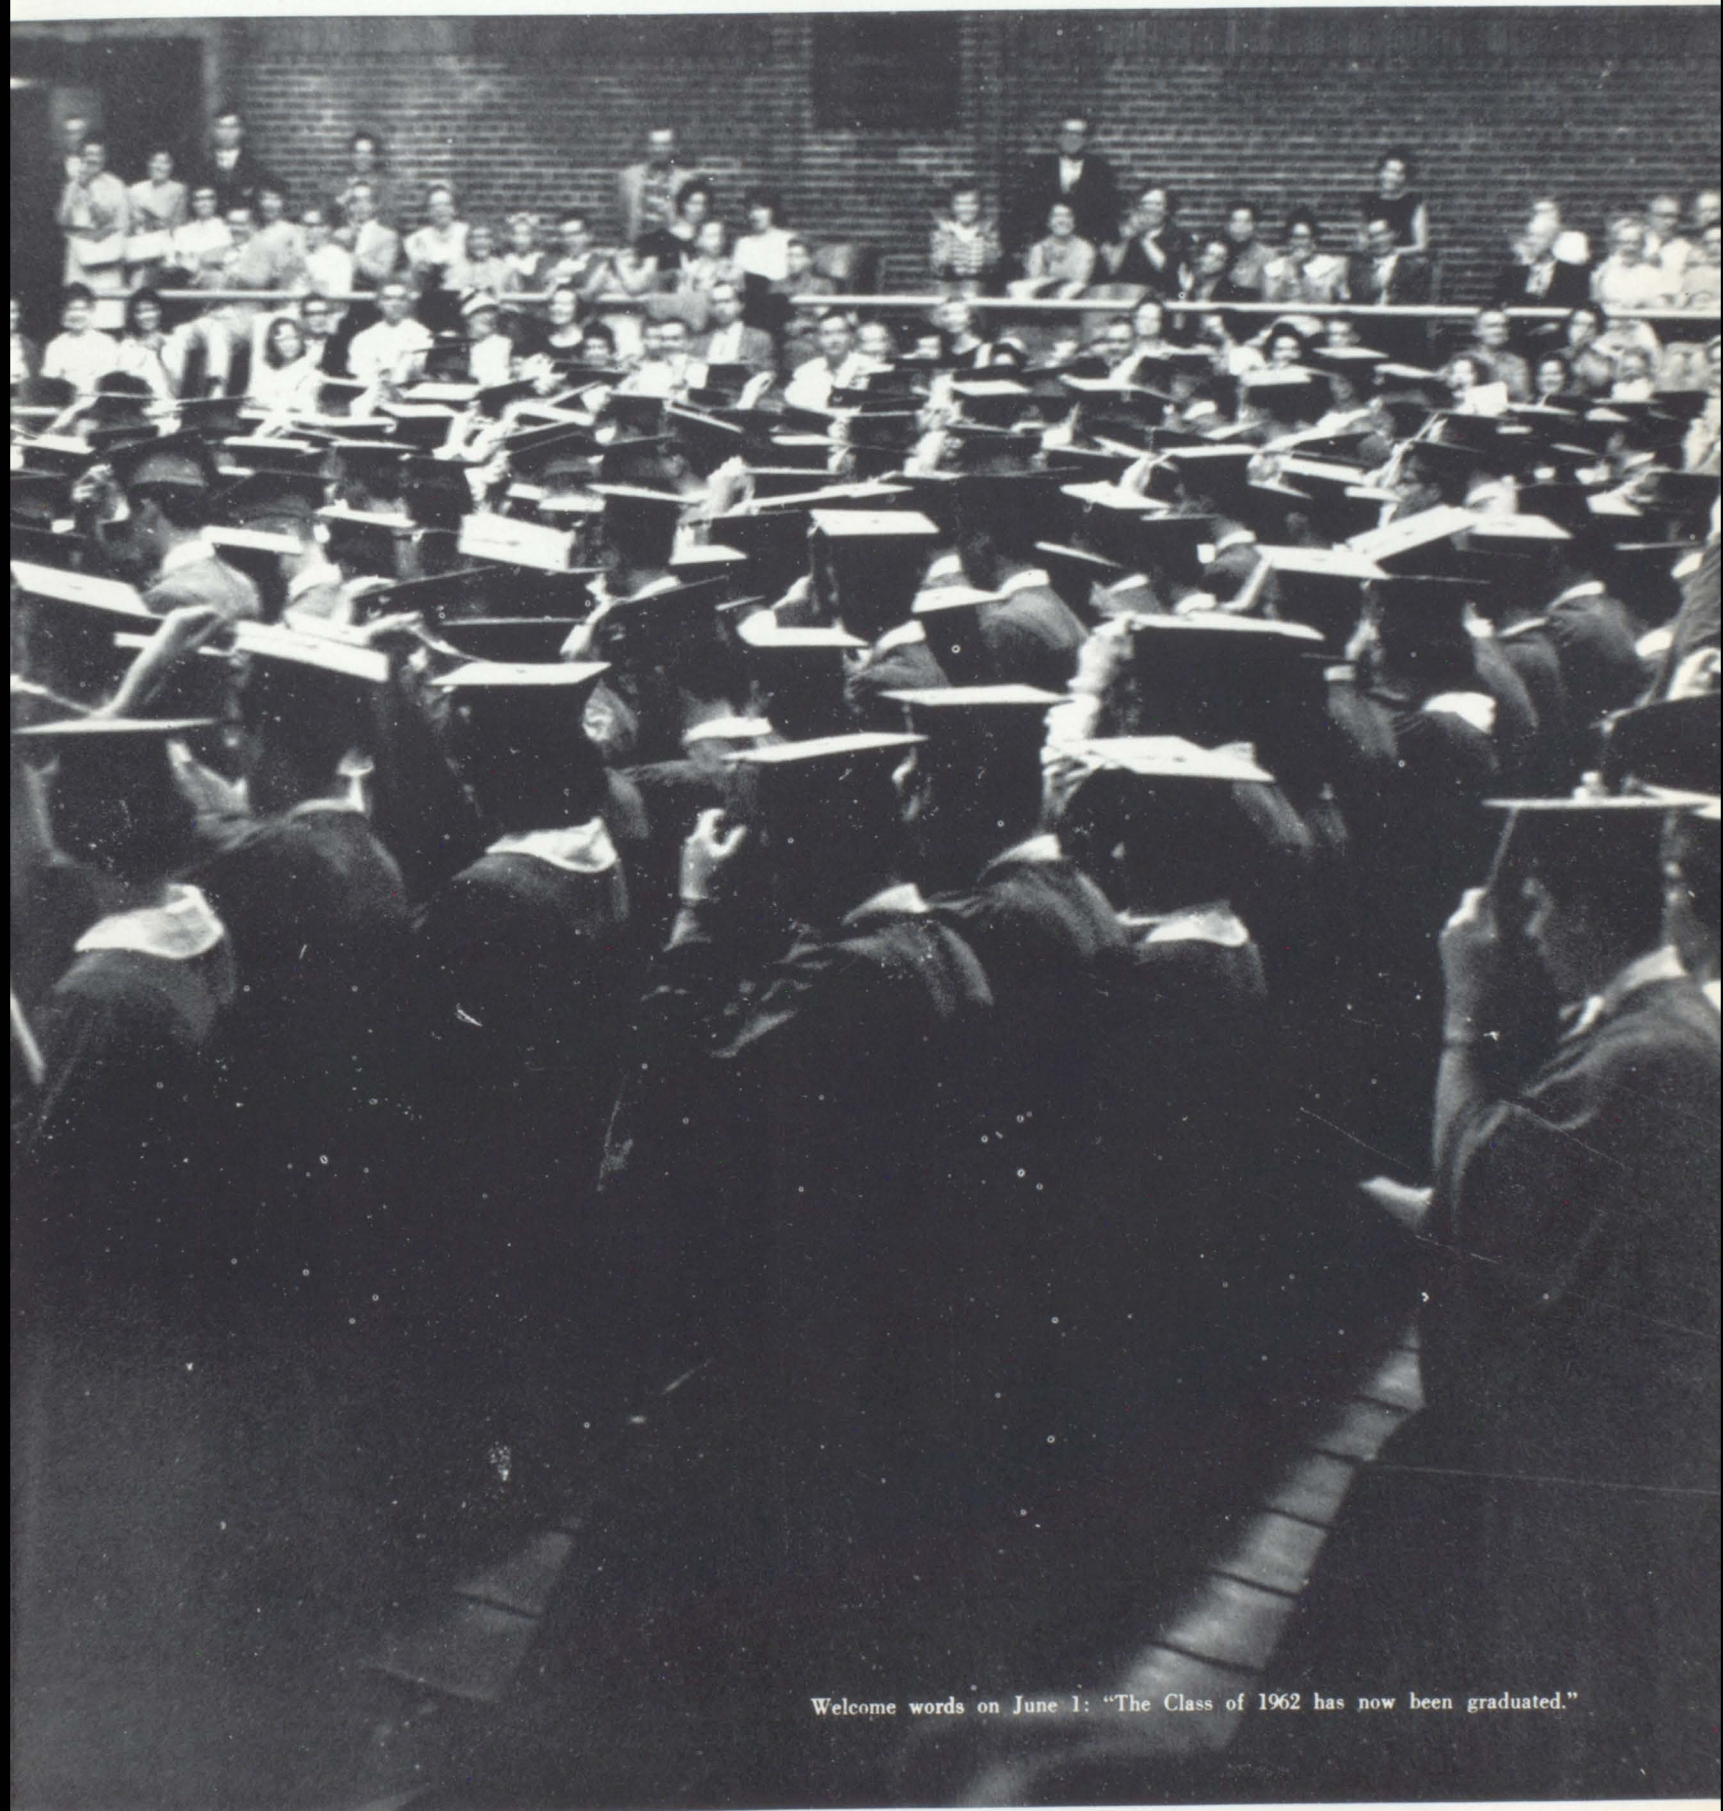

Working as a cashier at Dickerson's Drugs teaches Mary Kay Hermes to count change correctly.

"Oh, to be 6'2"!" thinks Doug Mann as he stretches to stock the shelves at National Tea.

Glenn Busby takes careful aim and throws a newspaper onto the porch of one of his many customers.

Us Responsibility Before Graduation

Welcome words on June 1: "The Class of 1962 has now been graduated."

Student Council

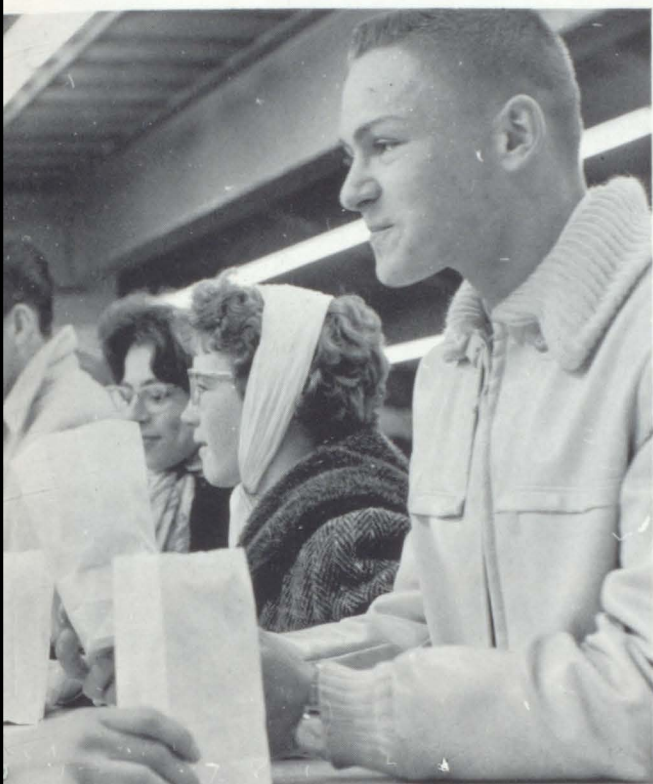

Frank Panchak, to convince Jerry Razus, says, "It's freshly popped popcorn and only a dime."

Pete Vasil and Kathy Rykovich eye Dave Horbovetz as the tedious but satisfying task of decorating the gym for the Inaugural Ball commences.

Promotes Best Standards Of School

With the pounding of the gavel, president Phil Clement called each meeting to order. Looking back, we find that each meeting was filled to capacity with new projects, such as the maintenance of the concession stands, the sale of lapel pins and the purchase of American flags for classrooms. In addition to these new items, the council's traditional activities also included a beautiful homecoming ceremony, class officer elections, Inauguration, the "royal" Inaugural Ball, a Christmas basket, the SOS Humanity Drive and Activity Day.

Mr. George Orlich and Mr. John Blakeslee assumed the responsibility of guiding and advising this year's council.

With a growing student body, Student Council, too, is expanding.

Queen Betty Bobor reigns the night of Homecoming, September 29. Her court was Roberta Coster, Emilie Harris, Theresa Harrison and Joyce Mrak. The escorts for the gala half time ceremony and the Homecoming Dance were Dennis Chapas, Manuel Barreiro, Dennis Drag, Ross Centanni and Jerry Vasco.

Student Council presented all social studies teachers with American flags for classroom display. Ron Alvarez is presenting one of the flags to Mr. Herman Shelby.

President Phil Clement discusses some methods for improving our school with Ruth Mahaney, secretary Mary Kay Mathews, treasurer, and Milan Skoro, vice president.

Listening to the candidates for offices give their campaign speeches helped the members of Boys' Club decide their votes for the year's officers.

Boys' Club Backs School Spirit

"And the score goes up another notch, two, two!" shouts the first organized Boys' Club cheering block.

Forming an organized cheering block and boosting our team to the utmost were unique additions to the club's program. With the helpful advice of Mr. Elmer Molchan and Mr. John Russell, the officers and members strive to improve our school's standards through greater participation and service.

The first order of business was a mass meeting at which the candidates for offices gave campaign speeches. Following the elections, business was underway.

As in previous years the game board schedule for our sports was posted in front of school to inform the community of our coming games. The student body was supplied with a social calendar marking important school events. A spring dance sponsored by the club was one of the social activities of the year.

Boys' Club officers practice singing as their club members prepare to go Christmas caroling. Gene Velchek, president, was assisted by Frank Bardeson, vice president, John Vokurka, treasurer, Jerry Klym, secretary, and Ron Alvarez, social chairman.

Beverly Majkoski muses over the activities of Freshman Week with "little sisters," Carol Walker and Florence Yovanoff.

"School days, school days, good old golden rule days" was sung by these girls as they observed their September birthdays at the Birthday Potluck.

Miss Shirley Bryan, Miss Dorothy Kouvelas and Miss Ann Novak shared in sponsorship of one of the most active Girls' Clubs in the state.

All girls look back fondly on Freshman Week with its embarrassing moments and rewarding experiences. We will always remember eating and laughing at the Birthday Potluck as we celebrated our own birthdays. The Sing had its clowns, its goofs and fun, but also its beauty and memorable tunes.

In addition to these events, Girls' Club sponsored the Corsage Sale, a Christmas stag dance, the Senior Reception, the "Ma, Pa and Me" Banquet, weekly Faculty Teas, a visit to the Old Folks Home and various assemblies and conferences throughout the school term.

To climax this year's activities, we danced the night away at the annual Girls' Club Turnabout, May 25.

Girls Club Furthers

Christmas corsages are part of the holiday season. The officers of Girls' Club helped with this activity. The president, Connie Rahutis, was assisted by Barbara Polizzotto, secretary, Linda Komisarcik, junior vice president, Mary Kay Mathews, treasurer, and Elaine Kouvelas, sophomore vice president.

Projects, Parties And Fun

Miss Shirley Bryan slices a piece of cake and wishes everyone a happy birthday at the annual potluck.

Rita Reinke, president, presents the agenda for the next meeting to her officers. Serving with her were Sue Wilson, senior vice president, Roni Jelusich, historian, Marion Avery, secretary, Carol Gyure, junior vice president, and Martha Dalby, treasurer.

"We have several different styles of stationery," explains Sharon D'Lugai to a prospective customer.

Apple polishing was the pastime of many Future Teachers of America during the last few weeks of summer vacation. The first project of the club was to present each teacher with a shiny, red apple the opening day of school.

Girls wishing to enter the field of teaching found the club a helpful asset in furthering their plans since they were provided the opportunity to assist many of the teachers.

New members were formally inducted in October. Other projects of the year were the preparation of Thanksgiving and Christmas baskets, a Christmas party, trips to colleges and the Senior Farewell in May.

Selling stationery and potato chips to finance their trips and fixing a window display for National Education Week kept the club on its toes.

The club is sponsored by Miss Shirley Crumbaugh, Mrs. Larry Odar and Miss Mary Kay Spaulding.

Treasurer Roni Jelusich climbs up to hang a Booster Club banner for display in front of the auditorium. Marilyn Schaefer, vice president, and Carol Massa, president, help to hold the twelve foot banner of black and gold material. Karen Kusta, secretary, was not present for the picture.

Banners And "Block"

Two tasks facing Senior Booster Club early in the fall required time, effort and ingenuity. Constructing a homecoming float by tediously stuffing chicken wire with napkins and putting together a horn-honking parade were their first jobs. Another major undertaking of the club was sitting behind sewing machines and making twelve foot black and gold banners and then selling them to local merchants.

Christmas candy was sold in December in order to inflate the club's treasury.

Cheering echoed and reechoed through Memorial Auditorium as the cheering block, in cooperation with Boys' Club, succeeded in raising our boys' spirits and boosting them on to victory.

Miss Angela Hannagan, Miss Patricia Gordon and Mr. Thomas Carpenter directed the club in all activities.

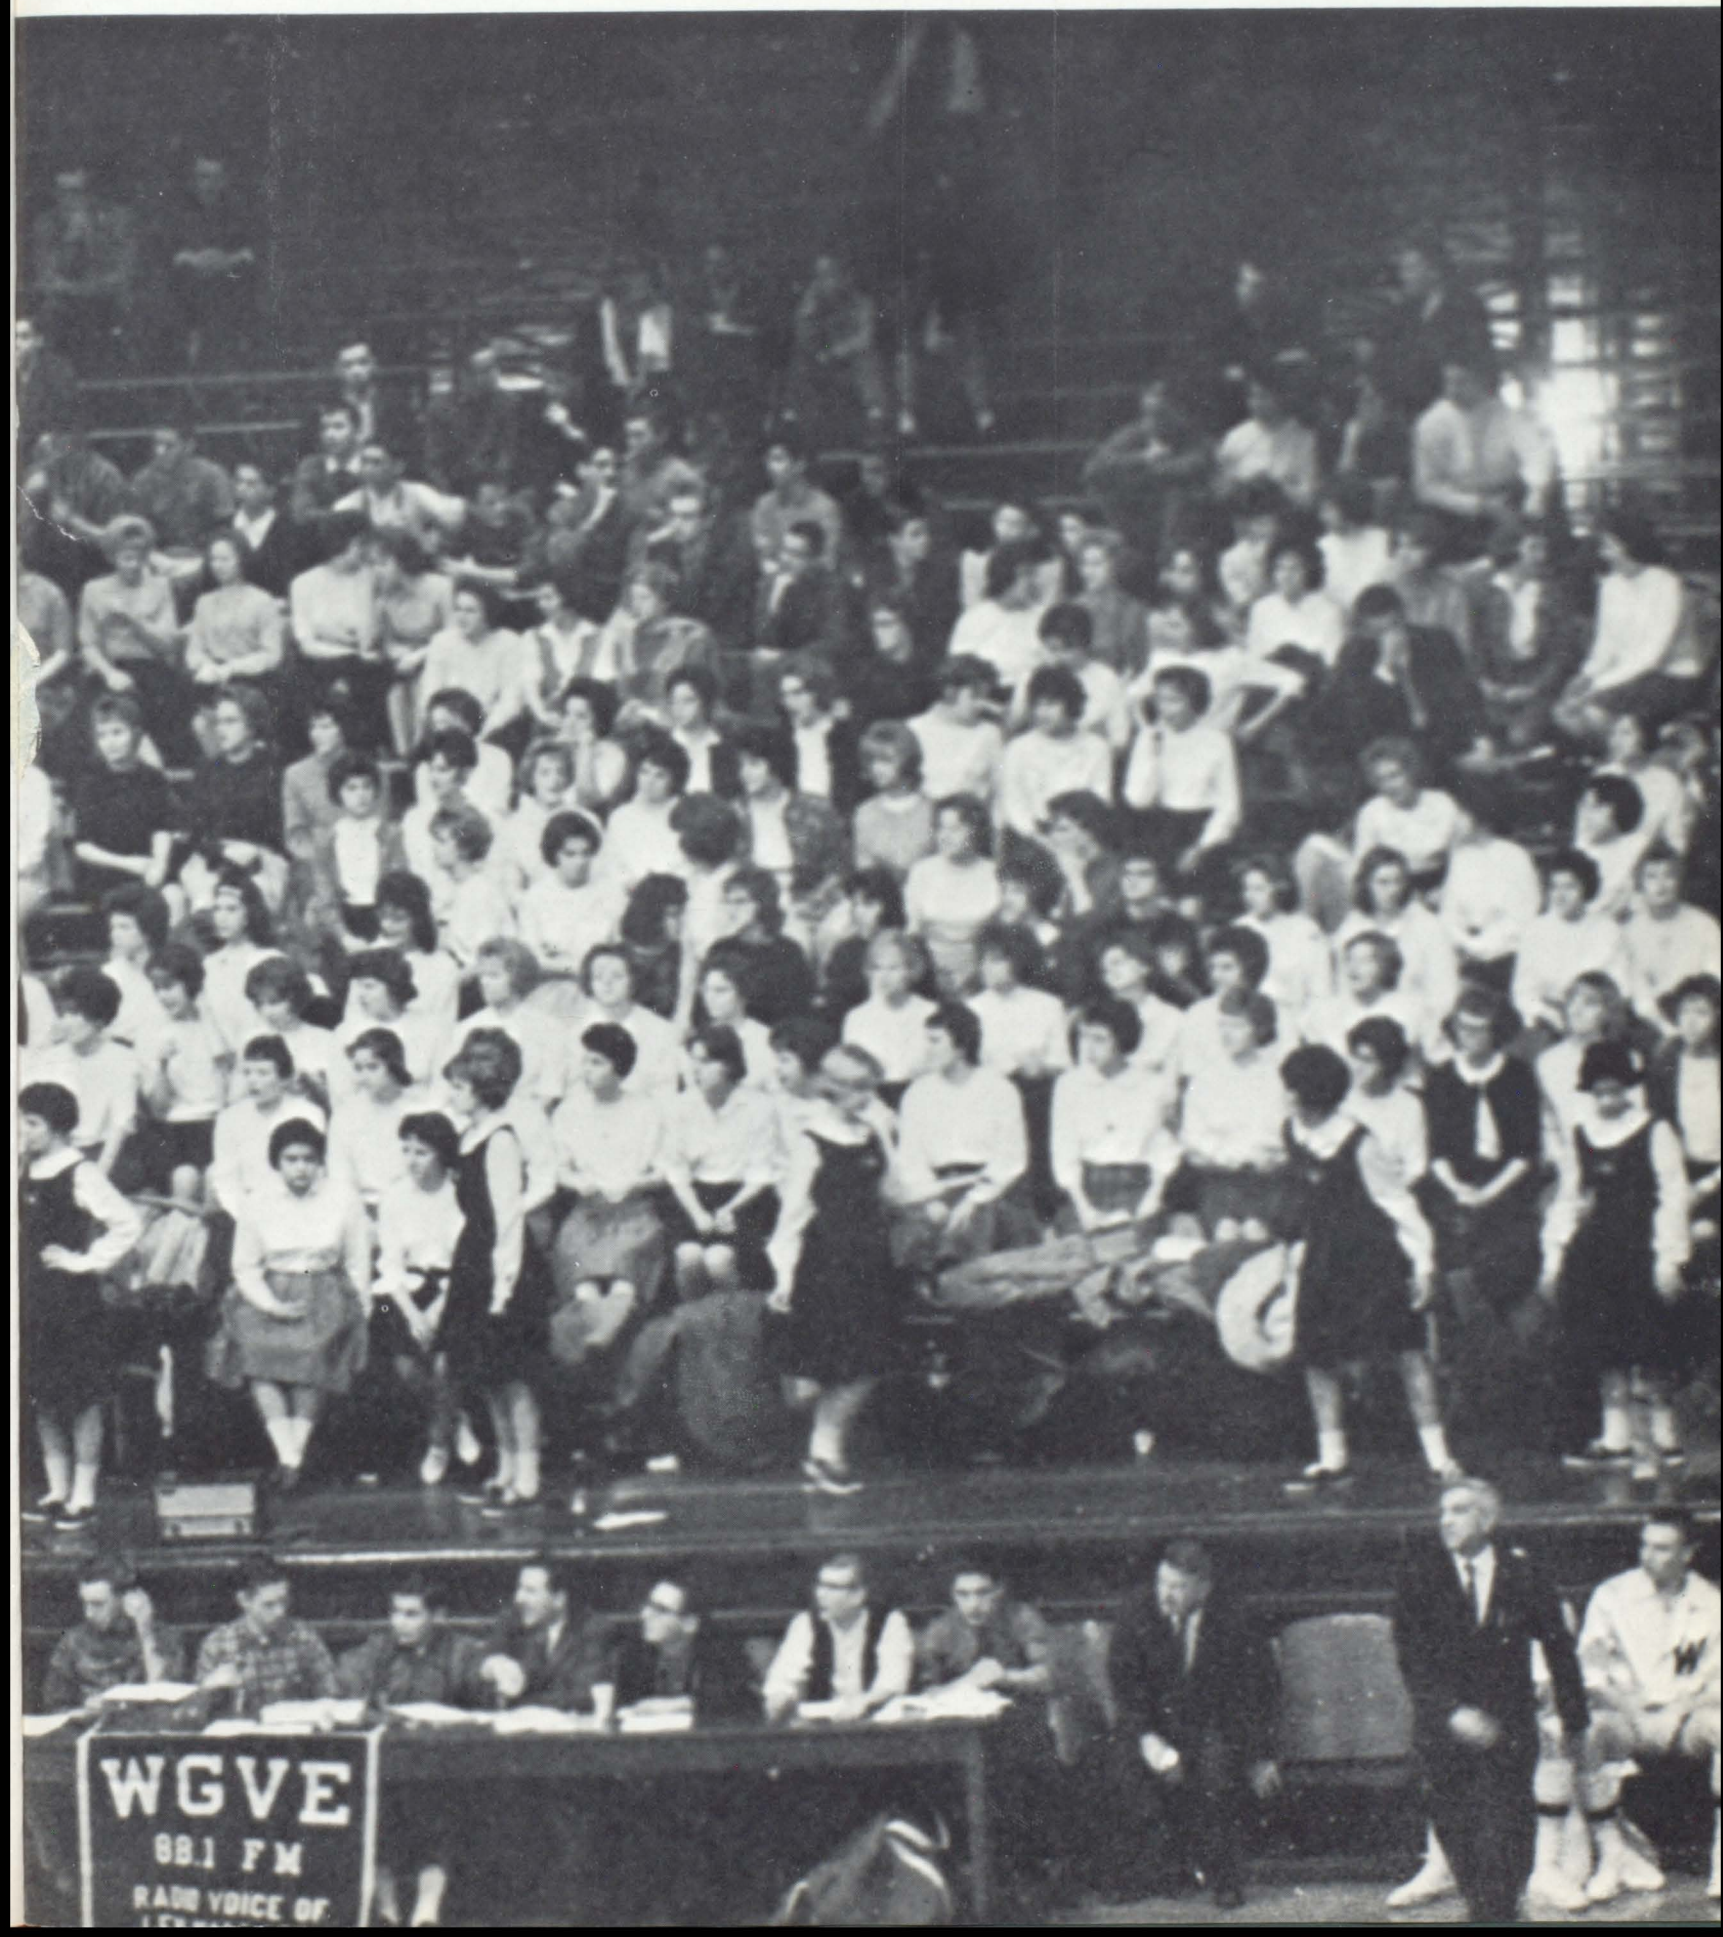

Caryl Brueckheimer and Carole Gaydos use their best salesmanship as they try to sell Christmas candy to Ken Latimer and another print shop student.

We downed the Tornadoes exactly as the player on our Booster Club homecoming float portrays. Brenda Mark and Cheryl Rukavina gleefully admire the product of long hours of work.

Help Boosters Support Team

Jeanine Eckert, Nancy Pinkerton, Gayla Roy, Sharon D'Lugai and Jean Muir waited patiently before helping themselves to the refreshments at the Inkpots' formal initiation.

Language Clubs Begin

A hilarious melodrama, complete with villain and hero, highlighted the formal induction of new Inkpot members last October. In accordance with the new Constitution, prospective members were required to submit a composition to be graded by Miss Dagna Simpson, sponsor. New members were chosen from those writing the best compositions.

A large Thanksgiving basket was assembled and delivered to a needy family. Carolling at Mercy Hospital afterwards was great fun. Book reports, panel discussions, skits and trips to plays helped the girls in their study of American literature and their pursuit of culture. The year was brought to a close with the annual banquet at the Wagon Wheel where tearful farewells were bid to seniors and next year's officers were elected.

Walking blindfold through a maze of chairs and tasting "nectar and ambrosia" were only part of what a new Olympian endured. In order to send representatives to the Latin Contests and to finance a biannual scholarship, members sold taffy apples under the sponsorship of Miss Agnes McLean. A large Christmas basket was assembled, followed by the annual "Saturnalia" party. The annual city-wide Latin conference convened at our school on February 17. A farewell tea concluded the year's activities.

Although a leaky punch bowl created confusion at Les Parisiens' induction last October, the meeting progressed as planned. A Thanksgiving potluck and a Christmas party were given. A basket was sent to a needy family. Mrs. Jeanette Hady guided the group in their study of France and its people.

Tacos and enchiladas are not usually the menu for a Christmas feast, but it was quite appropriate for Club Hispania's Christmas party December 20. The group, with the aid of Miss Mary Joy Bindas, sponsor, also made pinatas from paper mache for an orphan's home. A matinee dance and Spanish style show in the spring completed the year's activities.

With the blending of the four torches of Leadership, Scholarship, Character and Service, signifying the qualities necessary for membership, new members were inducted into the National Junior Honor Society. With the aid of Miss Angela Hannagan and Mr. Herman Shelby, members compiled the Junior High Honor Roll each grade period, a service initiated this year. It is also the duty of each member to be of service to new students and help to orientate them to the customs and procedures of our school.

All members remember the beating of their hearts when their name was read among the list of new inductees. A long walk across the stage and recitation of the pledge, and they were new members of the National Senior Honor Society. Congratulations were exchanged at a tea, sponsored by Girls' Club, following the induction.

The high school honor roll, which included all those with A's and B's, was posted and publicized each grade period, and congratulatory letters were sent home for each one on the roll. With the advice of Mrs. Jeanette Hady, Mr. Elmer Molchan, Mr. Jack Chidsey, Mr. Willis McAllister, Mr. Bernard Shirk and Mr. A. E. Emith, the group created enthusiasm for scholarship, stimulated a desire to render service, promoted leadership, and encouraged the development of character in other students.

Top Ten Per Cent

The girls in the class of '62 outnumbered the boys in achieving the highest recognition for outstanding scholastic achievements. Twenty-four girls and fourteen boys comprise the upper ten-percent of this year's graduating class.

Following Ruth Mahaney, valedictorian, and Kenneth Kepchar, salutatorian, in order of highest scholastic averages are Martha Dalby, Karen Wallace, Madeline Schultz, Carole Gregoline, Theresa Harrison, Frances Pavloff, Sue Wilson, Carol Steininger, Arlene Balakir, Dennis Sides, Mary Mackanos and Edwin Bristow. Others include Loretta Zakzewski, Donald Maroudas, Phil Clement, Ted Malak, Jeanette Benjamin, Alyce Adlesich, George Turnak, Sue Flowers, James Colosimo, Maria DeMarti and Barbara Polizzotto.

Also included are Christine Szymanski, Janet Hobbs, Thomas Rehfeldt, Allen Wesson, William Corrigan, Virginia Gusan and Joan Polizzotto. Concluding the list are Barbara Beeler, Patricia Dobrian, Rose Ann Trapane, Tom Zaradich, Donna Davis and Mary Dunda.

With great pleasure, Mr. Donald Torreson, principal, announced to our two highest students the results of their four years of high school studies. By maintaining a 3.970 average, Ruth Mahaney earned the title of valedictorian, while Ken Kepchar, with a 3.909 average, was named salutatorian.

R.O.T.C. Officers Robert Martin, Scott Jordan, Brooks Asbridge, John Guist and Honorary Lieutenant Melinda Kaminski congratulate Jean Muir on her promotion to Honorary Captain.

"Now pull the trigger!" direct Mike Kompir and David Creason as they instruct Barbara Verplank, Loretta Starzynski, Denise Walters and Judy Pall in the art of shooting.

Demonstrating the four firing positions are rifle team members Max Hernick, Ray Burkall, Dave Mitchell and Ed Simola.

Annie Oakley had competition as members of the Girls' Rifle Team gained skill in handling guns. The team has many interested shooters. Hopes are high for a Girls' Drill Team in the future.

Male members of the Reserve Officers Training Corps learned discipline, leadership, neatness, courtesy and responsibility through long hours of marching and tedious drill under the direction of Sgt. B. E. Hicks. Usual duties included raising the flag each day, funeral detail, parades and supervising crowds at athletic events. Our Boys' Rifle Team ranked third in the city, and their Drill Team did well in the May Competition.

Chosen as Honorary Cadets were Jean Muir and Melinda Kaminski, who worked to earn the rank of Honorary Colonel. The school Military Ball and city-wide Military Ball were the big social events of the year.

Printers, Hams Follow Personal Interests

Any night after school a member of Pica Club might be found hard at work in the print shop. The boys, with the aid of Mr. Joseph Mrak, rendered their services by printing calendars, note pads, programs, prom bids, etc. Informal meetings were held to widen the members' experience and knowledge of printing. At their last meeting of the year, the group bid farewell to the senior members of Pica Club.

Thirty-two hours without a rest is a long time, but members of the Ham Radio Club worked that long in the nation-wide Sweepstakes Contest in January. The object of the contest was to contact as many ham operators as possible in the allotted time. Under the supervision of Mr. Elmer Molchan, the group printed a monthly newspaper, "Spark Gap," and visited station WBKB in Chicago.

"What is it?" asks Denise Walters, as Pete Vasil hands her a glass of unknown liquid to drink. Kathy Hydo, Barbara Verplank and Shirley Zivich wait for Denise to finish this phase of the initiation for Biology Club.

Earthworms, a sheep's eyeball and blood (spaghetti, a peeled grape and coffee) headed the menu for Biology Club's initiation. As a Christmas project the group sent nut cups and a fruit basket to shut-ins. Various programs, under the direction of Miss Lola Lemon, sponsor, included a lecture on diamonds and a personal account of a nurse's war experiences. A Christmas party, a Valentine party and a farewell May picnic constituted the group's social activities.

White Caps' Candystripers are a familiar and welcome sight in our city hospitals. Besides candy striping they supported an Italian orphan, made holiday tray favors, Christmas carolled to the patients, and visited hospitals to learn more about nursing. Mrs. Helen Penny, Mrs. Margaret Swisher, R. N. and Mrs. Kathleen Shults guided these active girls who were presented the Parents' Magazine Youth Group Achievement award in October for outstanding service to the community.

Pawns And Batons Require Skillful Use

Allen Kepchar, John Modos, John Cole, Steve Bartosh, Janice Langan and Allen Eng watch as vice-president Pete Baranko and treasurer Edwin Bristow ponder over their next moves. Ken Kepchar, president, effectively checks one of secretary Georgeann Mandich's men.

Kathy Witecki, ass't. secretary, Cynthia Dimitroff, Pat Failla, Linda Gourlay, Gayla Roy, secretary, and Carol Fisher stand by as Doris Furgerson, president and head majorette, and Maureen Eisenhower practice their new baton routine.

After meditating for nearly fifteen minutes he made his move. As Chess Club members gather to play or teach the game of Chess to each other, this happens frequently. Both intra- and inter-school competition was organized. But not all their time was spent in playing chess. Members raked leaves and sold candy to earn money. In its second year, Chess Club with Mr. R. E. Doenges as kibitzer, has become a club of skilled and interested members.

Twirling a baton is not as easy as it looks as our eight majorettes can easily testify. However, long hours of practice on their own time and suggestions from Mr. Eugene Teeter helped the girls make it look easy. With routines entirely of their own composition, the girls added a special touch to half-time entertainment and to school parades.

Opening the curtain, managing the stage and using the correct lighting effects for our auditorium productions and programs is the task of the stage crew. It is the responsibility of these boys to know the fundamentals of operating the lights, drawing the curtain and setting the stage.

Members of Auditorium Council usher at all events in our auditorium and also usher for Commencement. During Easter the club donates a food basket to some needy family.

The underlying motive of Thespians, a newly organized honorary society, is the advancement and improvement of the dramatic arts program in secondary schools. Membership to this group is obtained by the accumulation of ten points received by helping in any way with a play to be presented to an audience and by attending plays on the Chicago stage.

All activities of the Stage Crew Auditorium Council and Thespians are handled by Mrs. Mattie Hannsz.

Christmas Services Maintain Tradition

"The people that walked in darkness have seen a great light." Vesper readers Nello Venturella, Betty Evans, Cheryl Engelen and Jim Benton practice their lines.

Vesper readers, Jim Benton, Nello Venturella, Betty Evans and Cheryl Engelen, received their parts by auditioning. Each one read for two roles in the solemn Christmas Service which is presented every year by the choral department. The two readers giving the best presentation, Betty Evans and Jim Benton, were awarded the honor of reading at the Sunday Vespers.

The main objective of Concert Choir and the three other choral groups, under the direction of Mr. Alfred Fissinger, is to present a variety of music to the school and community as well as to stimulate music appreciation.

Practicing for and participating in the Variety Review, the Christmas Vesper Service, the Senior Recital, the Senior High Operetta, Baccalaureate and Commencement keeps the choir in training.

The Lewettes await the cue to begin singing. The group includes Sandy Smock, Melinda Kaminski, Lydia Trinoskey, Louise Vukusic, Jeanne Millan, and Jeanine Moore and Karen Ross who are seated at the piano.

Don't be disillusioned — this is the Mixed Choir. The boys find the last row much more inviting although they participate in all activities.

Vocal Groups Often

Lewettes, directed and sponsored by Mrs. Lorain Hallsall, is a musical ensemble which sings for various performances both in and out of school. During the Christmas season they sing in the annual pageant and go carolling in several local hospitals. They also sang for other events such as the Talent Show, Senior Reception and for many community organizations.

Working toward the same objective as Concert Choir are the three remaining choral groups. Mixed Choir, Girls' Chorus and the more advanced Girls' Glee Club. These choirs also sing for the Variety Review, the Christmas Vesper Service, the Senior Recital, the Senior High Operetta, Baccalaureate and Commencement. A hayride in October and a picnic at Indiana Dunes State Park in June constitute the social side of the choral department activities.

Beethoven, Bach and Bernstein are only a few great musicians studied through practice and performance by members of Concert Orchestra. Mr. John Simons directs their study and makes arrangements for the many programs in which they participate. In the fall members prepare for the Masterworks Concert. The Spring Concert, Commencement and other auditorium programs keep them in continual practice during the spring months.

Requirements for membership include one year of beginning orchestra, one of intermediate orchestra, and the passing of various exercises and tests.

All work and no play seems to be the by-word of the orchestra, but this is not so. In January they sponsored a dance and with the coming of spring a skating party was enjoyed. In June orchestra members will join the band at a picnic to celebrate the close of a hard year of practice.

The background for many an enjoyable half-time ceremony was provided by the Concert Band. Not only does our band entertain at half-time in Gilroy Stadium, but they also play in parades and concerts and enter district and state music competition. Our band, under the direction of Mr. Eugene Teeter, was one of the many to participate in a mass half-time ceremony at Purdue University on High School Band Day.

In order for a student to be able to be a part of the concert band, he must have passed the requirements of beginning and intermediate band. The requirements consist of musical exercises which must be perfected by each band student.

In order to raise money for uniforms and instruments, band members promoted a magazine drive. To celebrate the end of the year, the group joined the Concert Orchestra in a June picnic.

We

Made Friends And Had Fun Together

Freshmen class officers include Bill Stark, president, Sharon Accettura, secretary, Richard Sepkowski, treasurer, and Joe Stark, vice-president.

Freshmen Prepare For Work And Fun

The class of '65, with three years to go, has completed their first year of high school. Although we were considered "green," we soon became adjusted to high school life through the many responsibilities we were expected to accept.

To get us ready for the work and fun ahead, we were participants in "Freshman Week." During this time the girls found a friend in their big sisters, while the boys found idols among the upperclassmen.

Not too long after Freshman Week, our first responsibility, the election of class officers, was put before us. When the excitement of nominations subsided, it was announced that Bill Stark was elected president; Joe Stark, vice-president; Sharon Accettura, secretary; and Richard Sepkoski, treasurer.

"Ever Since Eve" was the name of the play which, along with the sophomores, we promoted. This was the first production we presented. The hours rehearsing for that glorious, but frightening moment will never be forgotten.

The Freshman Party seemed to provide a sort of reward for the hard work completed in order to become sophomores. It was a very special evening.

Our first year of high school has come to an end. This is only a beginning, as we have three more fun-packed years ahead of us.

"In Between" Sophomores Await Future

There we were, standing at the halfway point of our high school years. We were no longer considered "green" yet we realized how much there was to learn before we could be considered upperclassmen. Little did we know what would happen during the year, but we didn't expect all the work that awaited us.

While looking forward to games, parties and dances, many of us tried to forget the work required to complete Julius Caesar, our autobiographies, and geometry. These were not the easiest assignments to do.

The most memorable experience of our sophomore year was the selection of the traditional class ring which we are planning to wear early next fall.

Many of us were fortunate enough to participate in the Freshman-Sophomore Class play, "Ever Since Eve". The hours spent rehearsing proved well worth the effort as the thrill of the lights dimming and the curtains going up was something we shall never forget.

Class officers Pete Vasil, president, David Horbovetz, vice-president, Pat Angerski, secretary and Bob Kusmierski, treasurer, saw to it that our Sophomore Party was a success.

Our sophomore year holds many treasured memories and we are now anticipating many new and more important events when we return to school in the fall as upperclassmen.

"We'll have to take her chair and all," says John Blake, who portrayed J. C. in the Freshmen-Sophomore class play, "Ever Since Eve". He and Larry Morgan, Spud, try to remove Jean Jasper, Susan, from the stage, while Georgeann Mandich, Lucybelle, tries desperately to stop them. This was the first Freshmen-Sophomore play and was presented on the afternoon of February 14, and the evening of February 16.

Juniors Accept Title Of Upperclassmen

September marked the beginning of a two year reign for the class of '63. We finally earned the coveted title all juniors are proud to receive — "Upperclassmen". Class rings were distributed early in the fall making our title official.

Our first responsibility as juniors was to elect officers to direct and lead our class. We elected Glenn Marquardt as president and David Triplo to assist him as vice-president. Mary E. Davis was elected secretary, while Linda Komisarcik served as treasurer.

Many sleepless nights were spent reading Giants In The Earth and libraries became our home away from home while working on our term topics. We were introduced to many advanced fields of study such as trigonometry and advanced algebra. We certainly devoted many hours to academic studies, yet we had our share of fun filled hours too.

Perhaps the highlight of our junior year was the memorable evening spent at our semi-formal class party on May 11. We worked hard to raise enough money to make that evening the most wonderful. It will often remind us of our eventful junior year.

We are leaving this year behind, but with us we are taking cherished memories and, most of all, experience. This should help us through our last and most important year — our senior year.

Surprise! Birthday parties are seldom celebrated in the cafeteria, but as our English teachers tell us, there's always an exception to the rule. With joyful tears Sue Toby makes a wish and blows out her seventeen candles.

Students whiled away the time before the bell ended the lunch hour by catching up on last night's homework, strolling around the campus, or chatting about the day's activities.

Seniors Anxiously Await Commencement

On the night of June 1 the same anxiety and joy will be felt by the 378 graduates of the class of '62 as was felt thirty years ago by the 89 members of the class of '32. This has been an eventful year and many memories will be cherished.

Following the festivities of Freshman Week and Homecoming, we really began to feel like seniors. After a hard campaign in October, our class officers, Don Maroudas, president, Martha Dalby, vice-president, Jeanette Benjamin, secretary, and Joan Polizzotto, treasurer, were elected. In order to pay for the debt from the previous year and to raise more money for the Senior Prom and the Class Gift, a Ways and Means Committee was organized.

After the pressure of mid-term examinations, we relaxed at our first Senior function on January 30, the Senior Reception. With the ordering of invitations and calling cards we realized that graduation was not far away.

The Crystal Ballroom provided a romantic setting for that night of nights, the Senior Prom, April 27. For many years to come we will treasure the wonderful moments shared on that gala evening.

In the concluding weeks before Commencement, the Senior Luncheon, Activity Day and Baccalaureate were held. Each event holds a special meaning for us. But the climax for which we have been working so long will finally come when our names are called and we receive that all-important diploma.

Promote Educational Goals

SUPERINTENDENT OF SCHOOLS,
ALDEN H. BLANKENSHIP

ASSISTANT SUPERINTENDENT,
VINCENT DiPASQUALE

School is not just learning. It is people, too. A modern school system is big business and the responsibility for directing the $40,229,465 enterprise is in the hands of the Board of Education. Matters of broad policy, teachers' salaries, expenditures of funds for equipment and maintenance are problems of this group.

The superintendent and his assistants find stimulation in planning an educational program for all students which will help them to achieve their potentialities and to accept their responsibilities in a jet age.

The activities in our section of the School City of Gary are directed by Donald T. Torreson and his two assistants, Alfred E. Smith and Lawrence G. Derthick. With their capable guidance and patient understanding, the school year of 1961-62 has bristled with improvements and educational advancement. The goal of our administrators is aptly expressed by Mr. Torreson who states that our school exists to help us to recognize that true education is not restricted to the walls of the classroom, but rather exists wherever man chooses to expand the energy to search for it.

We Backed Our Teams-Winning Or Losing

Victory Over

Although homecoming was a long way off, the boys began to get in shape early with long hours of calisthenics.

Students head homeward after an arousing pep rally and bonfire the night before Homecoming at Junedale Little League.

Queen Betty Bobor smiles proudly as she reigns over homecoming activities.

The desire to win is felt in the locker room as Coach outlines the strategy of the first half.

A team that prays together, plays well together.

The boys on the bench watch anxiously and yell helpful hints to the boys on the field.

Emerson Makes For Perfect Homecoming

Bill Helfrich (11) and Dave Crawford (10) hold back the Tornadoes as Phil Clement (25) charges through with the ball to make a first and ten.

"Now listen here, Grubar, you get in there and play!" warns Coach Eddie Herbert and Coach Larry Martin as they send in Fred Grubar.

Proudly adorned with yellow homecoming mums, the girls in the cheering section cheer their Hornets to victory.

"Hold that line", yell the fans as the Hornets do just that by bringing down another opposing player.

The crowd is silent as Coach Larry Martin tries to revive an injured player.

Our opponents tried but found it quite difficult to down our mighty Hornets.

All football players remember August 15. That was the day that many brave young men decided to give up hours of sun bathing in exchange for football training.

And the hours of practice led by new coach, Eddie Herbert, paid off as the Hornets down the Tornadoes of Emerson in a heartwarming homecoming victory.

On October 13, the buzzing of Hornet fans was heard by all Hobart as they jammed into the Brickie Bowl to see the Hornets sting the Brickies. The Hornets were out for victory against an old rival and this they got when they ended the two year Brickie domination by beating Hobart 12 to 6.

The Crown Point game brought the '61-'62 season to an exciting climax as we smashed them in a 27-7 victory.

Every Saturday morning battle cries could be heard on the big field as the reserve football team fought hard to beat each opponent. The boys look back with pride on the exciting game against Andrean when they really showed their stuff by chalking up 19 points to Andrean's 0. The team ended with a 4-4 record.

Coach Larry Martin adds, "The team was made up mostly of sophomores. There were several promising backfield and linemen who will play next year on the varsity team as juniors."

Also fighting hard to win their games was our freshman squad who played before each reserve game. By tying the score 6-6 in an exciting struggle, our boys succeeded in knocking Tolleston out of the race for the city title. Coach George Rykovich said the team had a lot of large boys and showed great potential.

Tom Stackert, Henry Kirkilewski and Bob Stout practice their starting positions.

When September and October rolled around the members of the 1962 cross country team began jogging and sprinting around Gleason Park again. By doing this they prepared for the many miles they would later run in meet competition.

Early in the morning the Cross Country team members would come to school to do their rugged workouts along with Coach Richard Polk. Runner Dave Olson described the time after workouts and races as Follows: "The morning workouts ended with a shower, milk and rolls and usually, sore biceps. The races usually ended with a lecture as to how not to lose the next race."

The boys remember the meet against Knox best. They had to run in the rain over a confusing unmarked course. Despite getting lost several times, our boys finished first; wet, exhausted, but smiling.

After a hard season, our varsity team placed 6th in the city and our reserves placed 2nd.

Rain Adds Excitement To Tennis Match

Rain or shine, our new varsity tennis team is out on the courts at Gleason Park playing hard. The boys agree that their most exciting game was strangely enough "the time it rained", the East Chicago Roosevelt game in which they lost by a slim 3-2.

Although tennis is in its first year at Lew Wallace, the team is enthusiastic and shows great promise. Under the direction of Coach Clarence Day the team beat the Panthers of Roosevelt both times they played them. Their record was 2-14.

Only three seniors were on the team this year. This means that most of the team will be returning next season. Although the team had a disheartening season record wise, there are definite signs pointing toward a better team in the future.

by Hustling Hornet Team

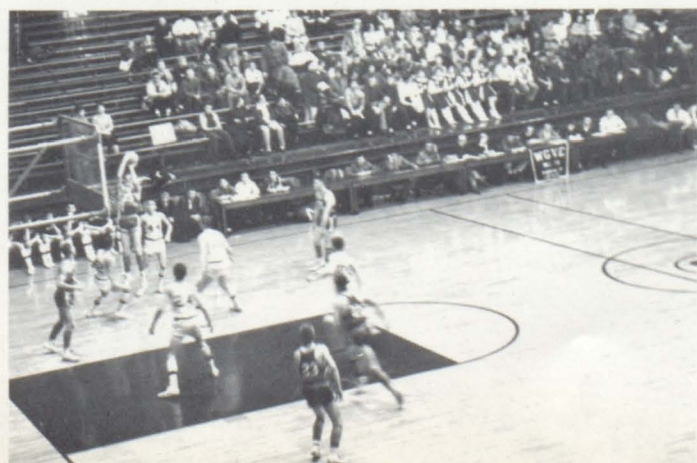

The teams move in as another ball is set up for two more points.

"Set it up, put it in, that's the way to win!" Marty Svihra tries for another free-throw.

The tension mounts as the other team sets up the ball.

During half-time WGVE announcer Dennis Drag interviews Coach Richard Polk about the possibilities of the second half.

The boys in the boys' cheering block are busy marking up points for the player they think will score the most points.

Hornet Control Ball

Two seconds isn't much time, but, as Wallacites can verify, they can make a world of difference. If the foul against Marty Svihra had been made just two seconds sooner, Lew Wallace might have been overjoyously victorious over Roosevelt. But to the dismay of all, the resulting overtime produced a 55-57 victory over us.

The East Chicago Washington game proved the second most exciting and hardest fought game of the season. We were downed by the Number One team in the region with a loss of only four points. Our team placed fourth in the city and seventh in the conference with a record of 7 wins and 11 losses.

Marty Svihra, our "Most Valuable Player", brought honor to our school by attaining the position of second highest scorer in the city and third highest in the conference.

Dean Knight (24), under the basket, sets up another two points.

Chuck full of prospective varsity basketball stars was the reserve team who gained their most valuable experience during actual combat before each varsity game. The main task of Coach Richard Polk is to give the boys the training and skills they will need when the time comes that they must keep our colors flying as varsity players. The boys had a 3-16 record.

The Freshman team was full of potential, too. In a thrilling overtime game against Froebel they sneaked by with a 32-30 victory, the winning basket made just in time. Gary Kos and Eddie Tefteau helped give the team a 5-8 record. Clarence Day coached the boys in all the skills and fundamentals of basketball with daily workouts and drills. Coach Day says they should do well next year.

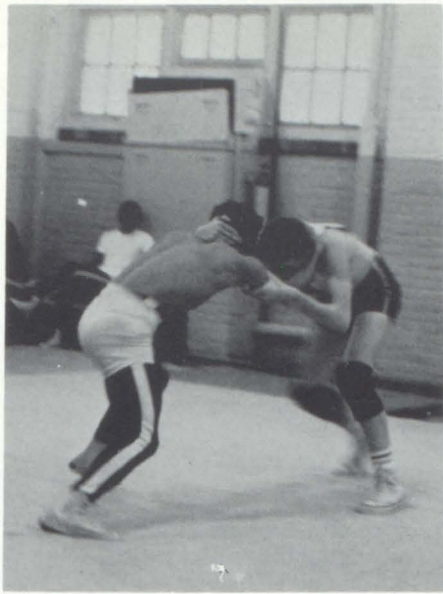

The Reserves practiced hard to learn the trick of basketball and to become good enough for the varsity squad.

Coach Rykovich seems to be praying as one of his mattmen meet another tough opponent.

"Practice, practice, practice and more practice" was the advice heard many times by the new wrestling team as they tried to make their first season a successful one. The coaching of this new team was undertaken by a new member of the faculty, Coach George Rykovich.

The first match of the season found the Hornets beaten badly by a rough Marion squad. The last meet of the year brought revenge to the mattmen as we beat Marion in a smashing victory.

Some people think wrestling is a rough sport in which to participate. It is! During the wrestling sectionals, one of our rough and tumble mattmen, Nick Cost, managed to wrestle his way into the second round against East Gary and broke the leg of his opponent. We managed to finish the season with a 3 and 5 record and no more broken legs.

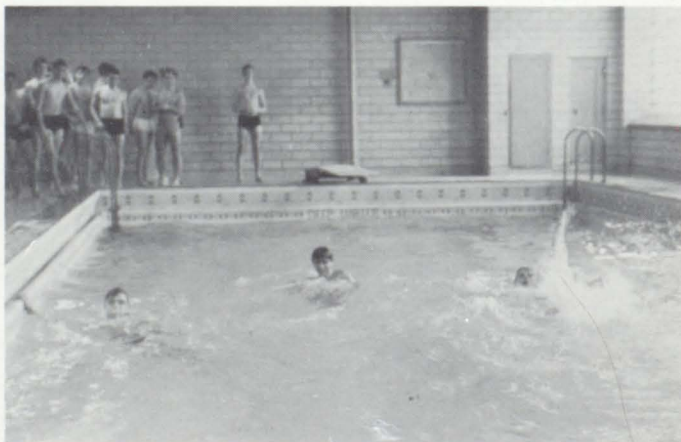

A perfect example of a reverse dive, tuck position, is demonstrated here by diver Jim Qualizza.

Splashing their way to the finish are Jerry Garapich, Milan Skoro and Dennis Drag.

Michigan City Meet

Racing and practicing for future meets, our mermen literally lived in the water.

Excitement mounted as the splashing mermen chalked up point after point in the Michigan City meet. To the disappointment of many fans, the Michigan City swimmers slipped by with a slim one point margin. Although the team was at a disadvantage because the pool was out of commission for five weeks, the mermen splashed to a 5-5 record under the guidance of the new coach, Denver Sasser.

This year's team was bolstered by Jim Qualizza, a consistent winner in the diving division; Gerry Garapich, a consistent winner in the butterfly division; Milan Skoro, a consistent winner in the backstroke division; and John Yarrington, a consistent winner in the 40 yard free style division.

At the end of the season, Dennis Drag was elected honorary captain of the swimming team.

Standing on the mound ready to warm up is our team members who are anxiously waiting for the game to begin.

"All right, you guys, let's show them how to play ball!" orders Coach Larry Martin as the game begins.

Skillful Pitching Keeps

Although the weather remained cold, our baseball team was led to a 5-5 record in conference play by Coach Lawrence Martin. Highlighting the '61 season was an exciting opening conference game against Valpo. The pitching of Dave Crawford pulled the team through to a 6-0 victory. He walked none and struck out 6, allowing only two hits to be made. Valpo never scored, but allowed us to slam in 11 hits and 6 runs.

Horace Mann provided another exciting game during the '61 season. Many fans turned out at Horace Mann field to watch another exciting Hornet game. The last inning found us behind by only a few runs with no one on base and with only one player left to save the game. Tension mounted as the last player came to bat. To the dismay of all our fans he struck a fly ball to the outfield which was caught by a lucky Horseman, creating a victory for them.

Opposition From Home Plate

A good ball, a solid hit, and another run is driven in.

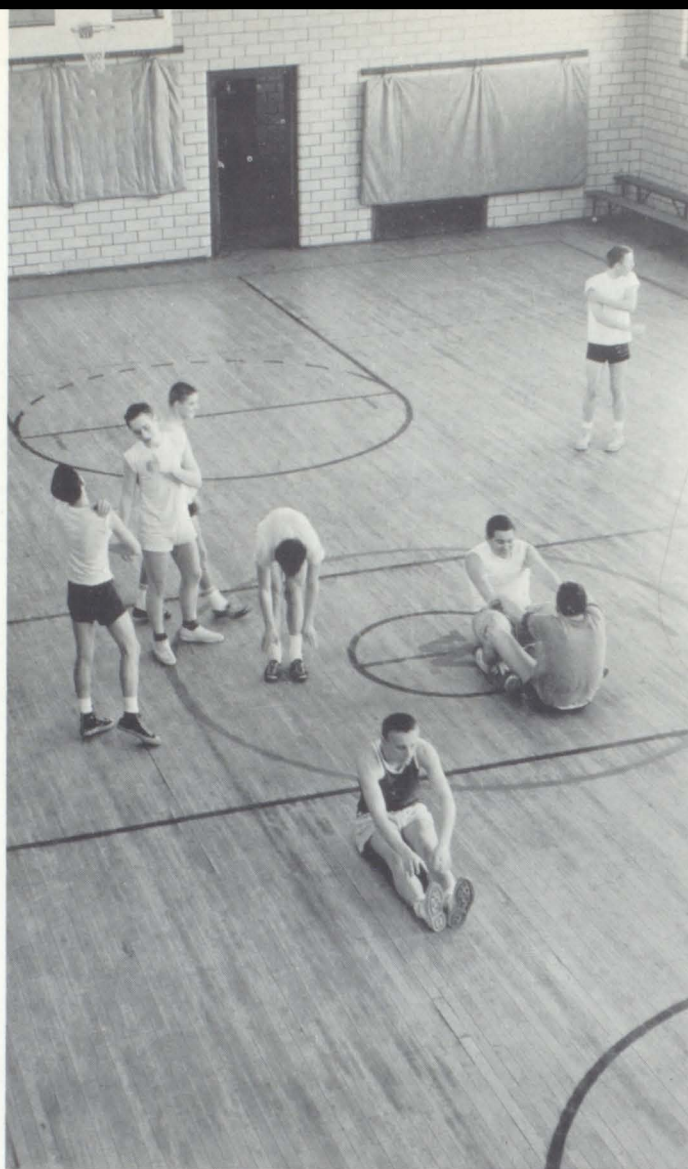

April 28 marked the beginning of the 1962 out door track season. Since track is a year round sport the boys had to begin practice many months in advance. Most of this practicing was done during the winter months in the gym balcony, but when weather permitted, practicing was switched to the school campus.

Running, jumping hurdles, high jumping, broad jumping, pole vaulting, and shot putting were among the events in which the boys participated. Coach Eddie Herbert was fortunate to have three award winners back on the team. Jerry Shay, 3rd in the conference for shot putting, Phil Clement, 1st in the conference for 440 yard dash and Tom Stackert, 3rd in sectionals for 1 mile run returned for the '62 season.

The annual state meet brought an exciting track season to a climax late in May.

Getting acquainted with the gym balcony is another requirement of future track stars.

Calisthenics provide an excellent way to get into shape, as the Cindermen know well.

Just three more laps and this Cinder-man will be through for the day.

Touching the toes not only slims the hips and waist lines but also strengthens the legs.

As soon as the snow melted enough that a little white golf ball could be seen, the Wallace Linksmen were out on the Gleason Park golf course practicing their swing in hopes that they might follow the footsteps of the '61 squad.

The 1961 golf team once again achieved the position of tops in the city and also obtained the coveted title of the Number One team in the NWIHS Conference with a splendid 16-1 record. Defeated only four times out of twenty-four, the team also placed second in the sectionals and twelfth in the state.

Coach Jim Anderson had three returning lettermen from last year's top-notch squad.

The 1962 schedule included meets with Horace Mann, Emerson, Hammond Bishop Noll, Edison, East Chicago Roosevelt, Hammond Clark, Hammond Tech, East Chicago Washington and Wirt.

Working on the perfection of his swing is Jerry Szalmasagi.

Cheerleaders Create New Yells And Uniforms

Leading the students in a cheer at the pep session are Reserve Cheerleaders Martha Dalby, Carol Kocevar, Linda Darter, Mary Lou Kocevar, Norma Gordon and Nancy Razus.

The Varsity Cheerleaders Virginia Gusan, Betty Bobor, Judy Hodges, Marcia Brueckheimer, Theresa Harrison and Barbara Polizzotto.

To be able to sew was not a requirement of varsity cheerleading this year, but it was certainly a must. Along with creating new cheers the girls also created new uniforms. They cut out and sewed together black jumpers as well as gold blouses with three dimension letters on the back to complete their new outfits.

Starting with football season in September and continuing through basketball season in February, were our varsity cheerleaders, Betty Bobor, Marcia Brueckheimer, Virginia Gusan, Theresa Harrison, Judy Hodges, and Barb Polizzotto.

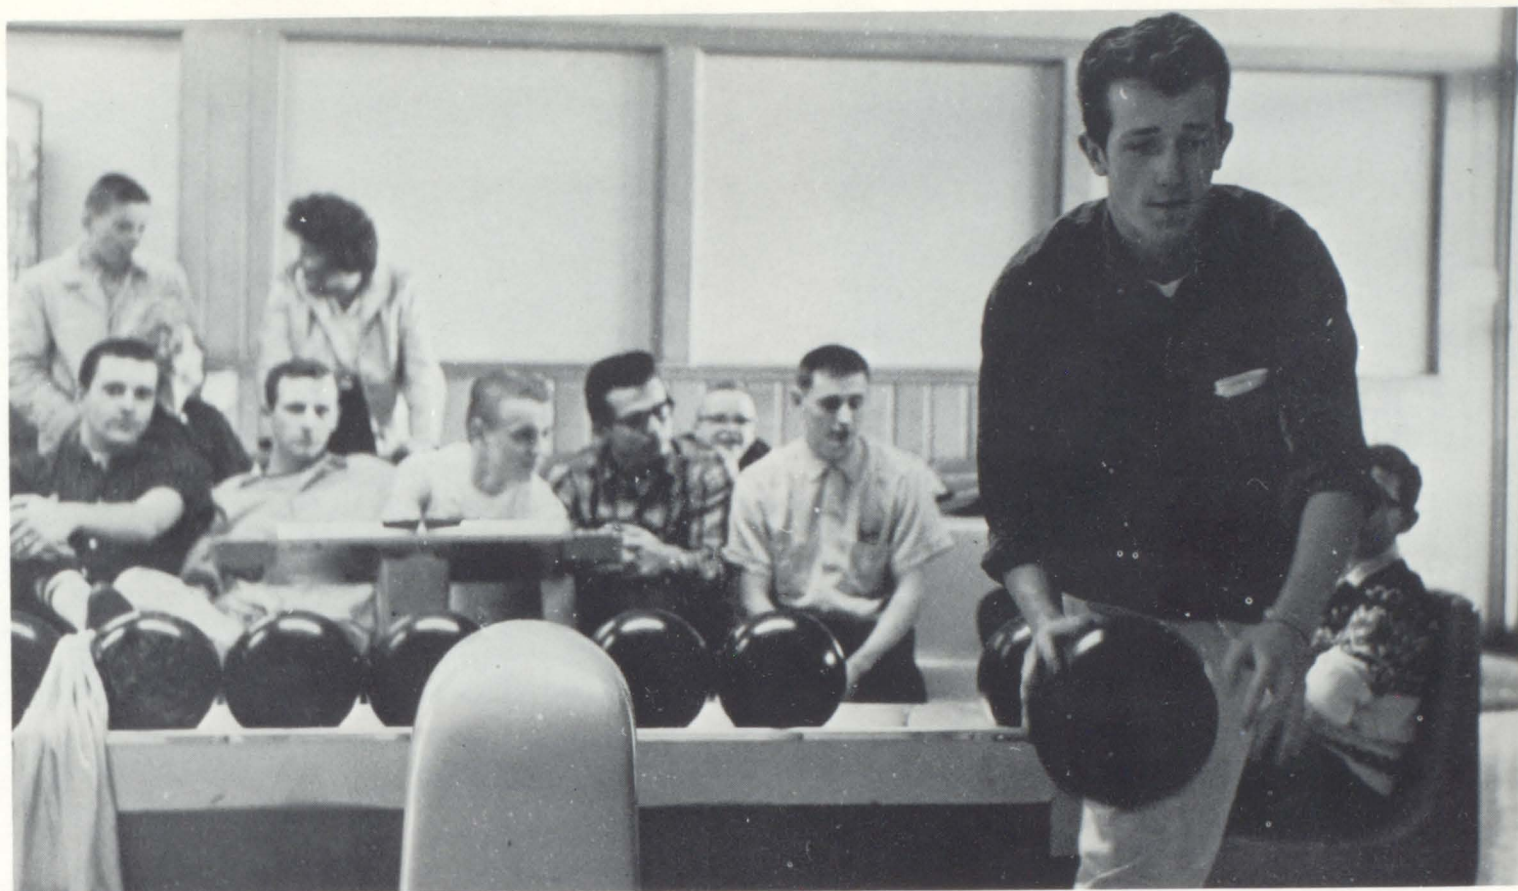

Always on hand to help cheer the reserve basketball team on to victory were the reserve cheerleaders, Martha Dalby, Linda Darter, Norma Gordon, Carol Kocevar, Mary Lou Kocevar and Nancy Razus.

Miss Anglea Hannagan, cheering sponsor, provided the cheerleaders with transportation to all out of town games and supervised them in their activities.

Miss Angela Hannagan and Mr. Donald Torreson were as enthusiastic as the students. Here they are openly worried about a decision.

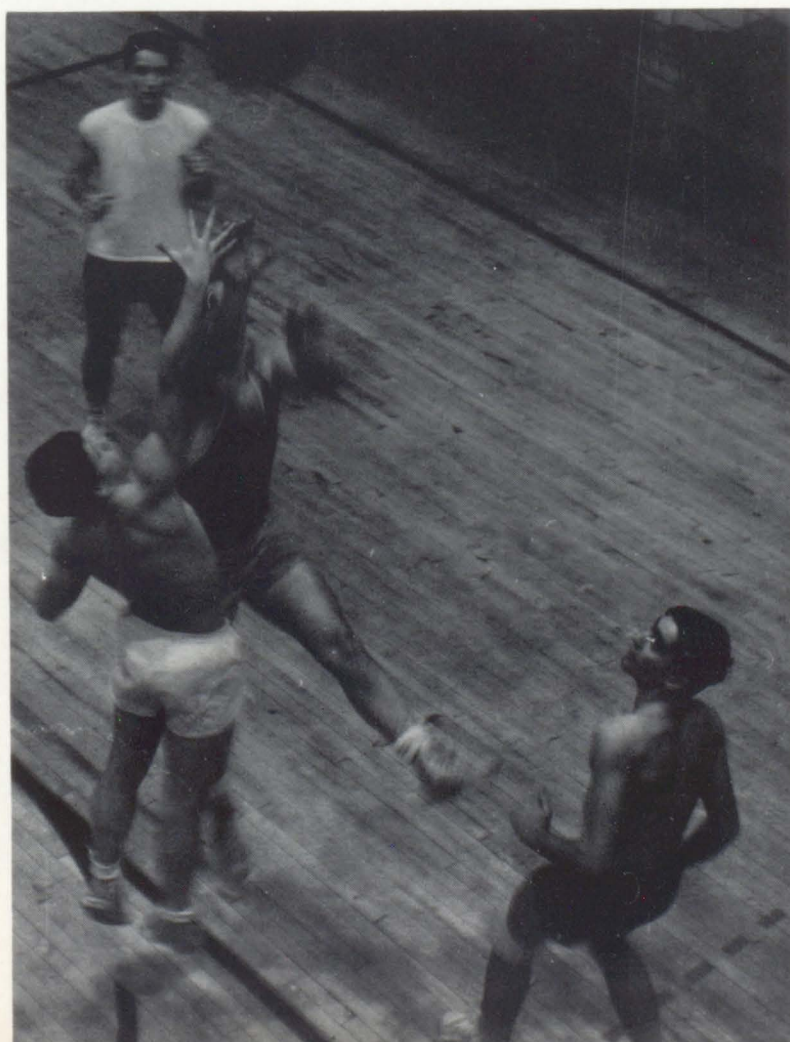

By following the varsity cheerleaders, no one could outcheer us.

Team captain, Terry Coady, prepares to bowl another strike as teammates Dave Bradach, Bill Helfrich, Ron Martin, Tom Hrinda and Mike Wardell watch.

Homerooms Participate In Intramural Sports

The intramural sports program, led by new director, Mr. James Anderson, included a wide variety of activities in which any high school boys could participate.

High scorer Milan Skoro helped raise the score of his team, Class 79, as they won the Intramural Basketball Championship in a close game against Class 76. With only six minutes to go, Class 76 led by an easy 24 points. Three men on Class 76's team then fouled out and Class 79, with only two minutes to go, began to score and won the championship 58-50.

Every Wednesday evening the Ridge bowling lanes were filled with intramural teams. All teams tried hard to make as many strikes as possible since trophies were awarded to the best teams in the league.

Another activity included in the intramural program was the "Little 500" bicycle race. Girls were also allowed to participate in this activity.

Frank Bardeson, one of "Gino's Bambinos", jumps high to capture the ball from the championship team, Class 79.

Council, Officers Plan Club Activities

"As a member of the G.A.A. you must strive to develop a democratic spirit by learning to work and play in group activities." This was part of the pledge recited by 52 girls on October 30, the night of G.A.A.'s annual initiation.

G.A.A. sponsors a sport to meet everyone's interest. In the fall, swimming and softball are predominant while basketball, volleyball, ping-pong and bowling predominate the winter months.

Besides taking part in various athletic events, the girls sponsor a stag dance and skating party, sell candy to help pay club expenses and prepare a Christmas basket for a needy family.

The highlight of this year's events was the overnight at Camp Tepicon on May 26 and 27. At this time Miss Mary Sharp, sponsor, presented awards to outstanding members and announced the next year's officers.

HOW GLENN DID IT!

The high school memories of this year may seem superficial to some, but we were able to watch a familiar era jet into the past and a new one rocket forth in a mere 4:56:26.

You are now holding the 1962 Quill and Blade, a memory book of the school year '61-'62. As you thumb through the pages, you will undoubtedly be reminded of the things you and your friends did during this year.

As with the preparation of the flight of the "Friendship 7", there are many people behind the scenes of yearbook production whose hard work and lost hours in 214M go without praise.

I would like to extend my deepest gratitude to Mrs. Kathryn Welsh, journalism advisor, for her patience and invaluable advice concerning copy blocks and general planning, and to Mr. George Strimbu, photography advisor, for his suggestions concerning layout design.

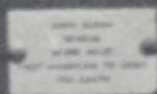

I would also like to thank Mr. Norman Coenig and Mr. Ernie Rubak, of Norman King Company, Mr. Dean McWhirter of Indiana School Pictures, the clerical staff, the janitorial staff, and the administration for their advice and co-operation.

I would like further to extend my appreciation to Veach's Florists, the Gary Hotel, Tiebel's and Frank's Store for Men for their wonderful co-operation.

To those who helped during School Picture Day, who co-operated with Club Picture Day and those friends who stood by patiently to give help and encouragement in moments when we were at the edge of despair goes my sincerest thanks and gratitude. Without the support of those mentioned above and those who must go unmentioned, we might never have accomplished the task of putting out a yearbook with such a feeling of success.
